State backs down after threats

Nursing home rules eased by officials

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The state backed down Tuesday on its requirement that nursing homes participate in a cost formula program after a group of the facilities threatened to stop treating welfare patients.

Acting Welfare Director Robert Canary said department officials will meet with nursing home representatives to negotiate a flat rate payment for those not wanting to submit cost reports for the Medicare-type pay system.

Under the proposed cost formula program, which was to have gone into effect January 1, each home would have been required to compute its costs and submit a statement to the Welfare Department.

Payments would have been based on nursing home accounts, with the maximums being $15 a day for skilled homes and $12 for intermediary homes.

Currently, the state pays flat rates of $14 and $11.

The Committee of Independent Providers of Long Term Care threatened Tuesday to eject welfare patients after Jan. 1 rather than take part in the cost formula program.

John Wheeler, a spokesman for the group, told newsmen the ultimatum included about 430 of the 1,200 nursing homes that treat about 17,000 welfare patients in the state.

Canary said about 40 per cent of the skilled homes already are operating on the cost formula plan, but some of the other homes did not want to switch to the new plan because of burdensome paperwork and because it would cut down on their profit.

The cost of auditing the accounts of 1,200 nursing homes would be exhorbitant, Canary said, and that money could be used better for patient care.

He said the department's negotiations with the nursing homes should be completed by Jan. 1.

Kissinger, Tho continue talks

PARIS (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger paid a brief visit to Brussels today to confer with President Suharto of Indonesia but scheduled more Vietnam peace negotiations this afternoon with North Vietnam's Le Duc Tho.

Indonesia is one of four countries that have been asked to supervise the cease-fire Kissinger and Tho are trying to work out. Presumably the U.S. presidential adviser went to Brussels to discuss this with Suharto, who is on a tour of European capitals.

Kissinger flew to Brussels Tuesday night after his second meeting with Tho. He returned to Paris in the middle of the morning.

Kissinger and Tho met for more than four hours Tuesday at a suburban villa owned by the French Communist party.

As usual there was no concrete information on their discussions. But during one 15-minute break they could be seen walking together in the garden, conversing animatedly and occasionally laughing loudly. This jovial atmosphere aroused speculation that the talks were going well.

Kissinger also took time out Tuesday to lunch with the beautiful blonde wife of banker Freddy Cushing, who is with Lehman Bros. in Paris. Friends said the Cushings have invited Kissinger to have Thanksgiving dinner with them, an indication that his talks with Tho may continue into the weekend.

North Vietnam meanwhile sounded its daily blast with a "special communique" demanding that the United States halt its bombing and "sign with equal speed the peace agreement" Kissinger and Tho worked out in Paris in October.

South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu's senior adviser on national security, Nguyen Phu Duc, left Saigon Tuesday night for Paris, presumably to put new pressure on Kissinger to hold out for a peace agreement conforming to Thieu's demands.

More planes lost in war

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command today announced the heaviest B52 attack of the war on North Vietnam and the loss of two smaller jets, including another one of its swing-wing F111s. Three of the crewmen are missing and one was rescued, the command said.

The F111 was the fourth of the $15 million planes lost since the controversial all-weather attack bomber returned to combat on Sept. 28. The command said it disappeared before dawn Tuesday while on a solo mission just above the demilitarized zone, and its two crewmen are missing.

The U.S. Command also reported that a Marine F4 fighter-bomber was shot down in southern Laos Monday. It said one crewman was rescued and the other was missing.

The loss of a third American plane was reported by the U.S. Embassy in Thailand, where most of the U.S. Air Force planes flying against North Vietnam are based. The Embassy said a C47 crashed late Tuesday as it was landing at the Nakorn Phanom base in northeast Thailand, killing two of the crew and injuring eight others.

Fifteen B52 missions were reported in North Vietnam below the 20th parallel during the 24-hour period ending at noon Wednesday, topping a previous high of 13 such missions during one 24-hour period.

While the U.S. Command would not disclose how many B52s made up each mission, other U.S. military sources said there were about 45 in all and they dropped more than 1,300 tons of explosives on the southern panhandle of North Vietnam.

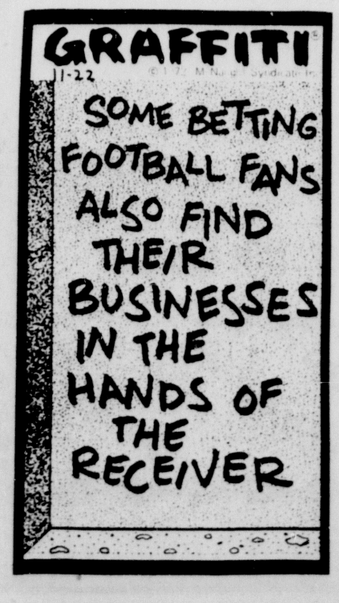
Leukemia treatment progresses

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Medical researchers have developed a method to treat leukemia more effectively by speeding up the long process of selecting the proper treatment drug.

The scientists say they have taken isolated human leukemia cells and induced them to multiply in the laboratory for periods of 36 to 96 hours. And for the first time, they say, these laboratory-grown cells are representative of the ones which grow in the patient.

The eight or nine drugs used to combat the incurable blood cancer disease can then be tested simultaneously on these leukemia cells growing in separate test tubes and the most effective drug can be used on the patient from whom the original cells were obtained.

Dr. Glenn A. Fischer, professor of biochemical pharmacology research at Brown University, said the standard drugtesting method involves using one drug at a time on the patient until the best one is found. He said this can take from a week to two months, while the new laboratory method takes only about two days.



Snow, rain

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Snow drifted into the northern half of the Mississippi Valley, the Great Lakes region and the Ohio Valley today while Thanksgiving eve was cloudy and damp over wide areas of the West.

Temperatures at the west end of Lake Superior and at sports in Texas dropped into the single digits overnight.

Rain mixed with snow left slush from the southern Ohio Valley to Tennessee.

From the central California coast to Canada and east over the Sierras, extensive cloud cover masked the West. Light rain and drizzle dampened the lower elevations of Washington and Oregon and snow whitened a few mountain areas.

Clear or partly cloudy skies prevailed on the East Coast from northern Florida to Maine, over most of the Rockies, and from extreme southern California to New Mexico.

Temperatures were below normal in the Midwest and East.

Readings before dawn ranged from 5 at Dalhart, Tex., to 72 at Key West, Fla.

Speck gets 1,200 years

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — Richard Speck, who once said "The chair is a good way to straighten a fellow out," sat silently in the courtroom as the judge sentenced him to serve up to 1,200 years in prison for the murders of eight nurses on Chicago's South Side.

The scene Tuesday in the Peoria County Courthouse was similar to that of June 5, 1967, when Judge Herbert C. Paschen sentenced Speck to die in the electric chair for the slayings.

"People deserve the chair when they kill somebody," Speck also was quoted by two physicians as saying during an interview shortly after he was arrested for the July 14, 1966, massacre.

The original execution order was put off pending a number of appeals. Then on June 29, the U.S. Supreme Court declared the death penalty unconstitutional in most cases and the Illinois Supreme Court ordered a hearing to determine a new sentence for Speck.

"Anybody who is opposed to capital punishment is silly," Speck had told the medical examiners, according to statements read into the trial record in a 1967 hearing in Judge Paschen's chambers.

Deer find hunter

HORNELL, N.Y. (AP) — Not many hunters found their prey as deer season opened here, but 19-year-old Robert Turner of nearby Hornellsville, was one of the lucky few. A deer found him.

Turner said he was just walking in the woods near his home Monday when a young deer came up and licked his hand.

Rail buff pays $2,100 for 1914 N&W caboose

By JAMES STEVENSON
Associated Press Writer

OLMSTED FALLS, Ohio (AP)—Even for a man who's made a hobby out of buying used street cars, $2,100 for a 1914 railroad caboose was "a lot of money."

But the 45 minutes of bidding didn't really faze Gerald E. Brookins. When it was over, he had one more railroad vehicle to add to his private museum here, Trolleyville USA.

The caboose had been donated to the Ashtabula County United Way Campbian by the Norfolk & Western Railway, and the fund drive auctioned it off last weekend.

Bidders came from several states and with a variety of objectives. One farm couple wanted to put the caboose behind their home on the lawn. An Ashtabula businessman wanted to use the car as an eye-catcher beside his store.

"Frankly, that's a big price," Brookins admitted after the bidding was over. "But it's worth it. I don't regret it at all."

It'll take a prize place among the 30 other railroad and trolley vehicles the 64-year-old Brookins runs around a three-and-ahalf-mile track at Trolleyville.

He started collecting them in 1954, partly by accident, but the Trolleyville museum now has become an occupation to rival his business—running a mobile home sales lot.

He got his start when he heard that the old inter-urban cars of the Shaker Heights Rapid Transit System were to be sold for scrap.

"I just thought that somebody should save some of these cars for posterity," he said. "So I went down and bid against the scrap dealers."

Those first purchases stretched out over the years into a project whose cost Brookins no longer even tries to estimate.

"I just can't answer that," he said.

The cars cost him between $200 and $800 apiece normally, depending on whether he's bidding against scrap dealers, collectors or—as it happened last weekend—Ashtabula businessmen.

Turner-Slagle race studied

State Senate reorganization delayed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — It will be about two weeks before Senate Republicans caucus to take care of organizational work for the 110th General Assembly, according to Majority Leader Theodore Gray.

Gray said the delay is because of the uncertainity of the outcome of the election in the 26th District and the fact that the Senate seat of Congressman-elect Ralph Regula of Navarre remains to be filled.

"As soon as there is some indication when both issues will be decided," Gray said, "I plan to announce a caucus immediately."

Republicans will have at least a 17-16 edge in the Senate. It is Gray's responsibility to call a caucus because he is the senior GOP senator in point of service.

Gray said it probably will be another two weeks before a pending recount is completed in the 26th District, where incumbent Sen. Robin Turner of Marion has challenged his 152-vote loss to Democrat Gene Slagle of Galion.

It also might take that long, Gray said, before someone is named to complete the remaining two years of Regula's term in the 29th District. County party chairmen in the district will recommend a successor, with GOP House members making the selection.

Meanwhile, organizational work by Democrats, who will control the House 58-41, continued Tuesday, with House Speaker A. G. Lancione of Bellaire announcing his first appointments of committee chairmen.

'Fatality forecaster' hopes he's wrong

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Just before every holiday weekend, Paul White makes a prediction he hopes won't come true. He's the state's "bookkeeper of life and death" on the highways.

"I always hope I'm a heck of a lot off on the prediction," said White, whose official title is chief of the traffic crash analysis unit in the Department of Highway Safety.

But statistics on the number of vehicular miles traveled in Ohio and records for past holidays indicate to him that 31 people will die on the state's streets and highways over the 102-hour Thanksgiving weekend.

White says his prediction could be high if the weather is bad. In that event, he said, many people might cancel travel plans, and many of those who do drive probably will slow down.

On the other hand, White notes statistics indicate that 554 drivers have died this year because they did not adjust their speeds to the road and weather conditions.

They might have been within the posted speed limit, but rainy weather or slick roads made them dead wrong.

The biggest cause of wrecks and the cause of 1,758 traffic deaths so far this year has been driver failure, according to White.

It's the driver who follows others too closely, the one who thinks he has the right of way, the one who isn't paying too much attention to his driving who becomes a killer, he said.

Alcohol causes many traffic accidents, he noted. And a driver doesn't have to be legally drunk to have liquor impair his performance and reaction time.

White said more than half the traffic fatalities this year occurred on roads outside municipalities.

A driver doesn't expect much traffic on country roads, he said. They are less well-lighted. And the city driver is freed from dodging urban traffic. He speeds along, hardly ever expecting the other guy to pull in front of him, White said.

Statistics bear out the value of seat belts, according to White. Of this year's deaths, he said, only 58 people were listed as wearing them.

New Pentagon Papers jury sought by defense lawyers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Arguing that Vice President Spiro T. Agnew prejudiced jurors in the Pentagon Papers case, defense attorneys say they want a new jury before the appeal-delayed trial resumes.

Attorneys for Daniel Ellsberg and Anthony Russo also say they plan to seek dismissal of espionage, conspiracy and theft charges because of "alleged governmental misconduct in connection with this trial."

The attorneys told the trial judge of their intentions Tuesday.

U. S. District Court Judge Matt Byrne said he hoped to resume the trial Dec. 6.

The U.S. Supreme Court refused last week to hear a defense appeal on a wiretapping issue that forced postponement of the case last August.

Ellsberg, 41, and Russo, 35, both former Rand Corp. researchers, are accused of giving the news media top secret documents detailing origins of U.S. involvement in the Vietnam war.

Defense attorney Leonard Boudin told Byrne if the trial proceeded, he would seek to have the jury dismissed in favor of a new one.

The defense cited comments made by Agnew on a nationally televised show Oct. 29 as prejudicial.

Comparing the Pentagon Papers case to the Watergate incident involving bugging of Democratic national headquarters in Washington, D.C., Agnew said in a transcript of the show:

"If you are going to purloin documents, why is there a double standard about purloining re-election documents and purloining the Pentagon Papers?"

Boudin did not elaborate on his contention of governmental misconduct in the case, but he said he would file his dismissal motion by Nov. 28, the deadline set by Byrne for filing motions.

Sales tax repealed

LEBANON, Ohio (AP) — The Warren County Commission has repealed its one-half of one per cent sales tax announcing that federal revenue sharing will take up the slack.

The tax brought in $310,000 in 1972. Federal money will total $290,000, officials said.

The money was going for a new, $1 million, criminal justice facility.

Bethlehem joins steel price hike

NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's No. 2 steel producer has joined the largest in announcing a broad price boost which could push up costs in the construction, machinery and automotive industries.

Bethlehem Steel Corp. on Tuesday announced price hikes of from $6 to $25 a ton on a variety of steel products, including heavy structural products used in the construction industry. The increase was equivalent to an across-the-board price hike of about 1.8 per cent, Bethlehem said.

U.S. Steel Corp., the nation's largest steel firm, had announced a series of similar price boosts last Friday.

The U.S. Steel price increase was said to be equivalent to a 2.7 per cent across the board hike, but — like Bethlehem's — took the form of larger increases on selected products composing about 55 per cent of the product line.

Bethlehem raised prices of steel shapes, piling, plates, rails, bars, rods and tubular products. All of these increases, it said, had been approved under a blanket Price Commission authorization about a year ago and would take effect Jan. 1.

Bethlehem also said it would apply to the Price Commission for permission to raise by 4 per cent the price of tin mills products, which make up a relatively small percentage of sales. These increases, if approved, would take effect next Feb. 16.

Left untouched were the prices of sheet and strip products, which make up about 40 per cent of shipments industry wide, according to analysts. Bethlehem had said in October that it would hold the line of these prices at least through April.

Bethlehem, however, concentrates more than other companies on structural steel, used in heavy construction. One analyst said that Bethlehem had apparently executed a neat end-run by pledging to hold steady strip and sheet prices, thus forcing its chief competitor to raise structural steel prices — the very ones that would do Bethlehem the most good.

The steel industry in general is trying to recover some of the added costs it has incurred as the result of an 8 per cent wage hike granted steelworkers in August.

Bethlehem spokesmen in New York and Philadelphia refused to give percentages on specific price increases or to say what the old prices had been.

Two drivers were cited by police and sheriff's deputies in five traffic mishaps investigated in the city-county area overnight. Damage to vehicles involved in the accidents was mostly minor.

Helen M. Mitchell, 41, of 236 Madison Ave., was cited for driving while under the influence of alcohol and reckless operation following a single car crash on U.S. 22-E, just west of Old Chillicothe Road, at 3:10 a.m. Wednesday.

Sheriff's deputies said the Mitchell car was eastbound when it ran left of center and into the ditch on the north slide of the highway, tearing up sod on the lawn at Greenline Equipment Co.

Damage to her 1965 model car was slight.

Police cited Luva M. Wilson, 73, of 504 Columbus Ave., for failure to yield in a two-car collision at the intersection of Market and Delaware streets at 12:07 p.m. Tuesday.

According to investigating officers Mrs. Wilson was westbound on Market Street and made a left turn into the path of an eastbound car driven by Ronald W. Richten, 23, of Covington, Ky.

Damage was moderate.

Other mishaps investigated were:

Military cutback timing

There is a disquieting flavor of political expediency about the timing of the Pentagon's disclosure of a plan to cut back on military bases and substantially reduce the number of civilian jobs in the military establishment.

While it is good to learn that there is a serious undertaking to reduce the enormous Defense Department budget, one cannot but recall that before the election the Democrats were roundly belabored for proposing just such action.

This naturally gives rise to a suspicion about the administration. The suspicion is that, though well aware of the impending announcement about reductions in the military outlay, the GOP cynically made partisan hay from Sen. George McGovern's proposals along this line. What else is one to think when, less than a month after the election, Defense Department officials reveal their plan to eliminate thousands of civilian defense jobs and close down or reduce operations at various domestic military bases?

Some may be inclined to shrug this off as not unusual, if not especially admirable, partisan tactics. We go along with that to some extent, recognizing that had the shoe been on the other foot the Democrats might have done the same.

A point must be made, however. This is that the inflated size of the military budget is a matter of concern which properly transcends mere partisan considerations. Perhaps saying this may strike some as being absurdly naive, but the point is valid all the same.

No amount of talk about political realities can obscure the fact that the implications of excessive spending make it far too serious a matter to justify playing political games with the subject.

Letters To Editor

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

I think the people of Ohio are losing their ability to think for themselves.

The case in point is the state income tax. This vote gave the governor a blank check signed by the working man. When Gilligan took office, he inherited 800,000 new jobs in a state several million dollars in the black. His first act was to put an 8 per cent tax on industry.

Next, he fought the billions that Nixon wanted to give the state; fearing the income tax would not pass. The pressure groups who spend the money; spent $3,000,000 in advertising. The Farm Bureau came out for it.

A spokesman from the state tax department in a speech said, "There are farms in Fayette County on the tax duplicate for $100 an acre. Our records show the average farm sells for $500 an acre. This is an inequity that will be corrected."

In my book, this does not mean 10 per cent reduction for 400 per cent increase in property tax. This is what the Farm Bureau was for.

Gilligan's 8 per cent tax plus 4 per cent tax on business means 12 per cent increase in the cost of the product. This means new industry will shun Ohio like a leper colony. They argued they were soaking the rich. If all the money were taken away from people earning $25,000 or more, it would run the state three days.

It is the working man who always pays the major share of the tax. Anyone thinking a manufacturer will absorb this 12 per cent will think again when he goes to buy the product. Instead of paying one penny more in sales tax, the average person will be paying 1 per cent income tax this year, and this you can be sure will increase each year from now on, plus the taxes on the manufacturer (12 per cent).

The farmer will be paying income tax plus 400 per cent increase in his property tax. That seems to be what most people want, or thought they wanted.

J.H. Persinger, M.D.

Hall of justice not completed, needs changes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Franklin County's new Hall of Justice isn't even finished yet, and they're already talking about remodeling because of injudicious placement of the grand jury room.

The jury would have to deliberate "smack in the middle of the prosecutor's office," according to one county judge, and witnesses would have to walk through the prosecutor's office to testify.

Judge Frederick T. Williams speculated that indictments returned by the panel in such a room might be subject to challenge on grounds the jury was under undue influence from the prosecutor.

It's apparently been decided that the jury will remain in its present quarters in the county's judiciary annex until wall partitions can be switched around in the new building.

Some trees like black spruce can reproduce by "layering" as lower branches become covered by mosses and develop roots, eventually becoming new trees.

TO: Chairman, City Council

DEAR SIR: We noted with interest the diligence with which some councilmen attack their duties and obligations at the semi-monthly meetings of City Council. But, we can't help but wonder what happened to your copy of Robert's Rules of Order. Possibly a copy of same could be supplied each councilman in the interests of returning the meetings to some semblance of order and accomplishment.

U.S. arms chief no-nonsense fellow

By LEWIS GULICK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A stern countenance peers down at employes of the U.S. Disarmament Agency from the official picture on the wall. It is that of their chief, Gerard C. Smith, a no-nonsense fellow who insists on trying to subdue the threat of nuclear war.

Smith headed the U.S. team which negotiated the first-of-its kind U.S.-Soviet strategic-arms limitation-talks (SALT) agreement for a first step in holding down the superpower weapons race.

Now President Nixon is sending the 58-year-old New Yorker to Geneva for a second SALT round starting Tuesday which promises to be as arduous as the first, three-year session.

Smith's impeccable capitalis family credentials (his father was a vice president and chief lawyer for General Motors) has proved no barrier to dealing with the Communist Russians.

"The Soviets seem to like his down-to-earth approach," says one U.S. veteran of many a meeting between Smith's team and the Russians' headed by Vladimir S. Semenov. "They don't like levity in these negotiations."

For Smith, broad-shouldered, graying and conventional-mannered, the life of a negotiator in a European capital is no rest cure. He figures he spent 450 nights in hotel rooms during lengthy SALT Phase 1 sessions in Helsinki and Vienna.

If he stayed home, he could relax oftener at one of his several residences — an embassy -size home in Washington's embassy area, a large estate on Maryland's Eastern Shore or his comfortable quarters at Southampton on Long Island.

But taking things easy is not for Smith, who hardly needs his $42,500 official salary for bread money and who has spent much of his life in public-affairs causes.

Smith himself rates awareness of what a nuclear holocaust would wreak as cause for commitment to work against such a catastrophe.

"Anyone who has seen a nuclear explosion," he told an interviewer, "has got to be impressed with the need for bringing the atom under control."

Smith got his lessons in what the atom can do after he left his successful New York law practice in 1950 to join the Atomic Energy Commission as a special assistant to Commissioner Thomas E. Murray.

Four years later he switched to the State Department where he gained a reputation as an idea man on practical arms-curb measures in an atomic age. During President Eisenhower's second term he was assistant secretary of State for policy planning.

As a Republican, Smith left federal ranks when the Democrats took over in 1961. But he kept active in the foreign-affairs field as a government consultant and as a private citizen. He pushed the unsuccessful project for a multi-lateral nuclear force among the Atlantic allies. He founded a magazine, Interplay, aimed at promoting U.S.-European ties.

Federal inspection law changes urged by Keating

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Legislation which would considerably alter voting procedures in American federal elections is being prepared by U. S. Rep. William J. Keating, the Ohio Republican's office said today.

A spokesman for Keating said the legislation, which will be introduced when Congress convenes in January, would:

—Declare election day a national holiday, a move designed to encourage a higher voter turnout.

—Move election day up 30 days to the Tuesday after the first Monday in October.

—Institute uniform voting hours in the continental United States, so that polls would close at the same time on east and west coasts.

Disney Company earnings increase

Disney reported that revenues for fiscal 1972 rose 90 per cent to $328.8 million, compared with $175.61 million in 1971.

Hal Boyle . . .

Avoid these invitations!

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—"A feel of safety kills ambition," said Henry Ford, genius of the assembly line.

On the other hand, there are few things more life-sustaining than a well-developed feeling of caution in places where a fellow doesn't feel sure of himself.

Now that we are being swept along by the overpowering wave of the future—whatever that is—the ability to swim with the tide, or at least to tread water successfully, has become a test of survival.

Another survival test is a strong desire to avoid needless trouble. The best way to stay out of trouble is not to get into it. To keep from getting into trouble, the wise man learns fairly early in life when and how to say no.

Here, for example, are some invitations which, if accepted, generally lead only to pain, woe, discomfort or disaster:

"Because you are my friend, I trust you. Please tell me honestly what you think my worst faults are."

"You don't have to know how. Just step out on the dance floor, and I'll show you. You know I wouldn't let you make a fool of yourself."

"Yes, I know it's a pretty bad neighborhood. But it's a great night out for pub-crawling. Let's try just a couple of more spots before we give up."

"Yes, it's a lot heavier than I thought, but all we have to do is carry it up three more flights of stairs, and we'll be there. I'll take the front end, and you take the back end, Okay?"

"All you have to do is take the tablecloth in your hand and give it a quick clean snap—and it'll come out and leave the pyramid of glasses standing there intact. Are you ready to give it a try?"

"No, I haven't seen her in years, but I thought that as a kid she was the cutest cousin in my family. She'll just be visiting us for this weekend. Shall I put you down to be her escort Saturday night as well as Friday?"

"If you don't like the first six volumes of our encyclopedia, you can return any three of them within 10 days, and we'll give you half your money back."

"Of course, polar bears like peanuts just as much as other bears do. This is a nice-looking old fellow. Put your hand through the bars and give him a few."

"Personally, I don't think I'm the type of girl who can settle down with one guy and be happy all her life. Are your sure you want to marry me?"

"Frankly, I think we can make $100,000 on this deal—to say the least. How about a contract that'll give me the first $100,000 profit, and you get 75 per cent of the rest. You could make a big killing."

"If this priceless mink coat wasn't hot, do you think I'd be trying to sell it to you in a dark alley for only $300. Okay, then, make me out your personal check for $250, and the coat is yours. Neither of us wants to be seen hanging around a place like this all day."

"Do you mind if I put a teentsy-weentsy long distance call on your phone? It's to my husband, who wants me to agree to a reconciliation. But don't worry—I'll keep it brief."

Freezer thief gets cold cash

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Old Mother Hubbard has nothing on Lewis Lesser.

He told police he'd moved out of his apartment recently, but it wasn't until the next day that he remembered he'd hidden $500 in the freezer.

He raced back to his old residence, but when he got there, the freezer was bare.

Presley television special scheduled

HONOLULU (AP) — Elvis Presley says he will steer clear of ideological promotions on a worldwide television concert he plans to orinate from Honolulu, Jan. 14.

"I won't try to push any messages or anything," he told newsmen Monday. "I'll just offer good entertainment."

Find firm innocent in negligence case

LEBANON, Ohio (AP) — The Cincinnati Gas & Electric Co. has been found innocent by a Warren County Common Pleas Court jury of negligence in a $200,000 suit.

Joseph H. Girton, South Lebanon, Ohio, had filed suit after he was injured in a March 21, 1968, explosion of the Lebanon VFW hall.

Judge P. Daniel Fedders earlier ruled the VFW immune from the original suit because it was a charity, he said.

Delta Rho makes 'tour'

Delta Rho chapter, Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority, met in the home of Miss Suellen Higgens for the social get-together. Members brought items for the Thanksgiving basket and for the basket to be sent to the Emily Jones Home for Retarded Children. They hope to visit this home sometime in December.

The program was presented by Mrs. Gary McCollim, who showed slides she and her husband took during their recent trip to Europe. Some of the countries included were Luxembourg, Germany, Holland, Belgium and France. In Germany, Holland and Belgium, they were fortunate to stay in private homes. One family in particular had hosted an AFS student from Washington C. H., Doug Looker. The visit with the DeMaegd family was most interesting and rewarding, Mrs. McCollim said.

After visiting the Normandy beaches and the Chateau of the Loire, the tour was ended for a visit to Versailles.

Miss Higgens served refreshments to Mrs. Kunz, Mrs. Bruce Von Bargen, Mrs. Wilmar Bergdolt, Miss Gayle Sullivan, Mrs. McCollim, Mrs. Glenn Jacobson, Miss Sharon Kellogg, Mrs. David Loudner and Mrs. Terry Lane, members, and Mrs. Lynn Shoemaker, Miss Debbie Dill, Mrs. Robert Snider and Mrs. Steve Smalley, the guests.

Homemakers' Angle

BY GLADYS KIRK

A MAGNIFICENT BIRD!!

Many of you will be temped to stuff that turkey today so you won't have to fool with it Thanksgiving morning — DON'T. The dressing does not become completely chilled through out when it is refrigerated inside the turkey cavity, thus we have a danger of spoilage. Do not combine the liquid and dry ingredients of the dressing and stuff the turkey cavity until you are ready to roast the bird

You'll need about ½ cup stuffing for each pound of ready to cook poultry. Fill the wisbone (neck) area lightly with stuffing. Fasten neck skin to back of bird with skewer. Stuff body cavity lightly. Tuck legs under bird, using skewers or string and shape wings akimbo-style — that is, bring wing tips onto back. Insert a meat therometer in the inner thigh muscle.

Place poultry breast side up on a rack in an open roasting pan. Do not add water and do not cover pan. If desired, brush skin with oil or melted fat. If poultry browns early in the roasting period, cover the breast and drumstick lightly with aluminum foil moisten a thin cloth with fat and place it over the breast and legs to prevent overbrowning.

Test for doneness - At the half or two-thirds point of roasting, cut the string or skin to release the bird's legs. The meat is done when the temperature reaches 180 degrees to 185 degrees. Also, check the stuffing temperature, this should be at least 165 degrees. A second way to test for doneness is to press the fleshy part of the drumstick with protected fingers. When done the meat will feel soft, the drunstick will move easily, and the leg joint will give readily.

Research has shown that the best roasting temperature to use for poultry is 325 degrees. The following table gives the approximate roasting time needed for thawed sutffed birds. The weight, ready to cook and the approximate roasting time at 325 degrees: 6 to 8 pounds for 3 to 3¼ hours, 8 to 12 pounds for 3½ to 4½ hours, 12 to 16 pounds for 4½ to 5½ hours, 16 to 20 pounds for 5½ to 6½ hours, and 20 to 24 pounds for 6½ to 7 hours.

Plan your schedule so that the turkey is out of the oven 20 to 30 minutes before serving. It's much easier to carve.

Do not leave stuffing inside the turkey. Bacteria which causes food spoilage loves warm cozy places. Immediately after the feast put the turkey, gravy, dressing, etc. in shallow containers and refrigerate. Then enjoy the day with your family.

True Blue class meets

The True Blue class of Grace United Methodist Church met in the church parlor when 20 members and guests, Mrs. Ethel Riber, Rev. and Mrs. Cloyce Copley and Rev. and Mrs. Everad Broberg were present.

The program was presented by Mrs. Pauline Lewellen and Mrs. Jane Riley. They stressed that everyday should be Thanksgiving Day.

Miss Norma Dodd read nature poems which she correlated with the slides. The Rev. Mr. Cloyce Copley closed with prayer.

Refreshments were served to Mrs. Forest Ellis, Miss Dodd, Mrs. Lewellen, Mrs. Leona McGinnis, Mrs. Mozella Ellis, Mrs. Riley, Mrs. Crone, Mrs. William Weaver and Mrs. Blanche Landrum.

Dear Abby:

A happy marriage but no children

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been happily married for 25 years, and he is the dearest thing on this earth to me. I have tried in every way to be a good wife, but I failed him in the most important way of all. For some mysterious reason, I have not been able to give him children.

I was never able to get him to consider adoption. He hasn't complained, but I can see the hurt in his eyes when he sees his friends with their children and grandchildren, and my heart aches so.

What can I do to make it up to him?

HURTING

DEAR HURTING: If you've had a good marriage (and you obviously have,) what is there to "make up"? Don't assume that YOU weren't able to give HIM children. (Perhaps HE wasn't able to give YOU children.) It's history now, so stop grieving for something you never had. God in his infinite wisdom gives and withholds both happiness and tragedy. Accept His decision, and don't question it.

DEAR ABBY: You are the only person I feel I can ask this question. I have reasons to believe our 9-year-old son may be ahead of himself in his sexual development.

Please don't think I have a dirty attitude about sex, because I haven't. My question: Can lightly tickling a boy's neck, arms and legs arouse him sexually? From what I have observed I think it can and it disturbs me.

A relative (a maiden lady of 55) delights in tickling our boy whenever she is near him. He seems to enjoy it immensely as he sits close to her whenever she is here, probably anticipating it. She makes a kind of game or joke of it.

I don't approve of exciting (consciously or otherwise) a young boy in this manner, and for reason I won't mention here, I think that is what is happening.

Can this actually happen to a normal boy age 9? If I am on the wrong track, please tell me. I don't want to make a fool of myself. Please tell me what you know about this sort of thing. Thank you.

CONCERNED MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Your concern is well-founded. Sexual responses are not uncommon in 9-year-old boys (and younger). I advise you to tell your relative to keep her hands to herself. And if she doesn't understand why, be more specific.

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for eight years to a man who is nearly perfect. He's a good provider, a wonderful father and an excellent lover, but he positively refuses to go out in public with me.

He has no reason to be ashamed of me. After three children I still wear a size 10. I'm no raving beauty, but I keep myself looking nice and wear clothes well.

I am at a loss to know why he refuses to take me to dinner or a show in the past three years. He used to take me out for dinner twice a year — on our anniversary and Christmas, but no more.

The children and I always go alone, on vacations, to church, visiting, whatever.

Abby, what could be wrong? The only time we ever spend together is in bed. But that's not enough. He's a fine looking man and I would be so proud to be seen with him, but no amount of teasing, begging or nagging will move him.

Any help you can give me on this problem will be appreciated. Or should I just give up and keep quiet?

SOMETHING MISSING

DEAR SOMETHING: Something is missing all right. An explanation from your husband. It's almost as though he were "hiding" from someone. If I were you, I would not give up neither would I keep quiet.

TO "CONFIDENTIALLY": Your daughter is over 21 and shouldn't need parental consent to go on a skiing trip with a group of her friends. Don't assume that everyone who goes skiing is necessarily "she-ing" or "she-ing." Problems? Trust Abby. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, BOX 69700, L.A., CALIF., 90069 and enclose a stamped, addressed envelope.

McNair Church now has 105 members and congregations average around 50 worshipers at regular Sunday services. Sunday School attendance averages about 65 young people.

Special education matters on County Board's agenda

Special education matters topped a relatively light agenda for the Fayette County Board of Education Tuesday night.

Board members approved a number of resolutions designating fiscal agents for special education services performed in the Miami Trace School District.

The board adopted a resolution to seek the services of a psychologist, Mrs. Evelyn Petry, from the Highland County Board of Education for the 1972-73 school year for a cost not to exceed $1,129 to supplement the minimum salary schedule.

Also adopted was a resolution seeking the services of a supervisor for the special education program in the Miami Trace District through the Wilmington City School Board, which will act as the fiscal agent. The cost for the services will be approximately $95.25 per special education unit.

Board members also approved a resolution adopting a comprehensive plan, prepared by assistant superintendent Stephen Yambor, for the development of special education programs and services for handicapped children. Yambor said the proposal must bbe submitted to the Division of Special Education, Columbus, by Dec. 1.

IN OTHER matters:

The board approved a salary increase for Mrs. Lois Duff to $9,075.20 effective Dec. 1. Mrs. Duff has obtained a transcript from Wilmington College showing issuance of a B. A. degree;

Approved monthly activity accounts, the district's financial statement and routine monthly bills.

Another 'bomb threat'

Sheriff's deputies investigated another bomb threat at a local restaurant and a burglary at service station on Ohio 38 at I-71 during the past 24 hours.

Officers said someone telephoned a threat to Anderson's Restaurant, CCC-Highway-W, Tuesday morning but a search revealed nothing. A waitress who answered the phone said the caller had stated there was a bomb in the furnace room, then hung up. She described the caller as having a feminine voice, possibly that of a young girl.

Investigation is continuing.

A burglar made off with $154.59 in money, tires and other auto supplies from the Sohio station at Ohio 38 and I 71 sometime early Wednesday.

Investigating officers said the burglar had entered the station by knocking out a window on the south overhead door. Once inside he removed 60.10 from the cash register and carried away three tires, two gallons of anti freeze and two headlights.

Dave Rinehart, station employe who discovered the theft, said an undetermined amount of gasoline was also taken. The theft occurred sometime after 2:30 a.m. Wednesday, Rinehart said.

Donald Wilson, of 934 Dayton Ave., reported the theft of a wristwatch, power saw and 35 millimeter camera with flash attachment to police. Wilson said the theft had occurred sometime during the past six weeks.

Police also reported that several stereo tapes stolen from the Pete Yahn residence Friday night had been recovered. Yahn told officers that someone phoned him Monday and said the tapes were lying on his porch in a plastic bag. Yahn said the bag also contained his camera which he was unaware had been stolen.

Fayette officer relates FBI School experiences

Rotarians here have a pretty good idea of the Federal Bureau of Investigation Academy, the courses it offers and the purposes it serves after Chief Deputy Sheriff Robert McArthur described his experience there while taking the 12-week course.

Speaking at the club luncheon Tuesday in the Country Club, McArthur said the basic purpose is to train carefully selected and recommended applicants for management and supervisory positions with local law enforcement agencies.

The new academy facility on the U. S. Marine Corps base at Quantico, Va., is now virtually completed. The class of approximately 200, of which McArthur was one, was the first and largest to be graduated. Plans call for two classes a year for a time, along with training and refresher courses for FBI agents.

McArthur, upon his graduation, received 15 hours credit at the University of Virginia.

Before any of the applicants are accepted, McArthur said, they also are given a thorough security check by the FBI. The only cost of the course to the city or county sending an officer to the academy is his regular salary. The "tuition" is paid for out of a grant by the federal government.

THE COURSE, McArthur said, includes criminal law, behavioral science, community relations, methods for collecting evidence, photography, education for other officers, firearms, physical training and allied areas. He said among the most valuable results of the course came from his experiences while living and talking with other officers in the seven-floor dormitory and dining room.

In conjunction with his talk, McArthur showed a series of color slides of the Academy complex, describing each scene in detail.

The program was arranged by Prosecutor Rollo M. Marchant.

President Fred Domenico conducted the session at which Ron Hidy, proprietor of Hidy's Market, Columbus Ave., and John Gruber, the county Extension Service agent, were welcomed into Rotary membership. Hidy was sponsored by Mike Helfrich, and Gruber, a member of the Urbana Club, was sponsored by Phil Grover, his predecessor.

Edson Pitwak, Rotary exchange student from Brazil, and Eric Johnson, a WSHS classmate, were guests for the luncheon.

Files expense account

J. Herbert Perrill, a successful candidate for the county commission term commencing Jan. 3, has filed an accounting of campaign expenses with the Fayette County Board of Elections. Perrill listed expenses of $299.51 and no contributions.

Penney stores open Sundays

The J.C. Penney Co. store here will be open on Sunday from noon until 5 p.m. starting this Sunday.

Explaining Penney's decision to open on Sunday, Robert Lee, manager, said: "The popularity of Sunday openings with customers has grown steadily, and the acceleration in such openings by our competitors has caused us to re-examine our former policy opposing openings.

"In view of the strong movement toward Sunday openings and their growing popularity, the Penney Company has decided to become a part of this trend. The company has traditionally attempted to fulfill the wants and needs of its customers. If our customers want to shop on Sunday, then J.C. Penney must respond by opening its stores on that day."

Pennsylvania police seeking a new image

By CHRIS ROBERTS
Associated Press Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "What's an old penny made of?" someone would shout, passing a policeman.

"Dirty copper!" was the loud reply — and then the kids would run.

That old taunt was born in a time when policemen were characterized either as overweight Irishmen, wearing sagging gunbelts and twirling nightsticks, or leather-jacketed, high-booted young men wearing tinted sunglasses and roaring by on a motorcycle.

Today, across Pennsylvania, programs are underway to create a new image, one that looks better in the community scene.

LANCASTER is a city where patrolmen now are trading in old uniforms for what Public Safety Director Herbert Yost calls "new career outfits."

The new attire, to be phased in over the next year, consists of green blazers worn over a light green broadcloth shirt. The trousers are oxford grey, shoes black, and the tie — still undecided.

A vest pocket crest, bearing a rose — the city's symbol — will replace the badge; identification will be carried in the officer's pocket. Lancaster policemen also will swap their six-inch barrel revolvers for shorter models which will be worn out of sight.

"We feel the new uniforms will be less abrasive and command more respect," explains Lancaster Police Chief Wilmer Hoover.

Using part of a state grant to fund the program, the Williamsport Police Department also has undergone a facelifting.

THE TRADITIONAL blue uniform is now green, but it still bears a military cut. The badge, always silver, is now gold. The police cruisers, once black and white, are now all white.

"I think it makes a man feel a little better if you dress him up, and he does a better job," says Police Chief William Eck.

Backing up Eck, who believes policemen should be in uniform, is Paul Coleman, head of the 11-man police force in the borough of Darby, outside Philadelphia.

Coleman balks at a town council proposal that the policemen wear civilian clothes and rename themselves "community safety officers."

Reading also experimented on a limited basis with changing the appearance of its lawmen. However, the plan was abandoned.

"The chief decided all the men inside — the planning officers, the training officers and the like — would wear blazers," explained Capt. Robert Ochs.

ALTHOUGH it didn't catch on, Ochs said he thinks the idea of "inside officers" wearing civilian clothes is a good one. But like Eck and Coleman he is opposed to beat patrolmen being out of uniform.

"Suppose at night you're patrolling a beat and there's a family fight," he offers. "They'd think it was a nosey neighbor butting in and not a policeman.

"Or suppose a fellow falls down and you're trying to give him first aid. They'd think you were trying to rob him.

"Or take an accident investigation and you're trying to direct traffic.

"I'll tell you," he said, "if someone wearing a blazer tried to stop me I'd run him over."

The saber-toothed tiger, which existed only in pre-historic times, had two fanglike teeth that were as long as eight inches.

Willis Insurance in new offices

The Richard R. Willis Insurance Co. office is back on N. Fayette Street after 40 years and three previous locations.

The move was made over the weekend from Dr. Joseph Herbert's building, 310 E. Court St., wiich had been occupied by the firm for more than 13 years.

The new offices are in a virtually new building at Fayette and Market streets on the site of the former Ralph Hickman Inc. Chrysler and Plymouth agency office and showroom.

The main office, at 204 N. Fayette St., is approximately 28-by-40 feet with a counter for customer convenience. Off of it are Richard R. Willis's 14-by-18 foot private office, two 11-by-11 foot offices for adjusters and a smaller office near the entrance. The main office is carpeted with a predominately green-brown rustic moss tweed. Portions of the private offices and main office are paneled in wood.

The Willis Insurance Co. was founded in 1932 by the late Richard R. Willis Sr. It had occupied two rooms on N. Fayette St., the first on the second floor and the second on a ground floor almost directly across the street before it was moved to the Herbert building.

Richard R. Willis Jr. now heads the firm which his father founded.

The city has leased a portion of the new building for offices for the city manager, auditor, clerks and the Council chamber. The move from the present City Hall is to be made within a month. The entrance is from 208 N. Fayette St.

RICHARD R. WILLIS

The wing of the building has not yet been leased and the interior will not be completed until the new tenant draws the plans for it.

Bowman wards off police and firemen

LAKEWOOD, Colo. (AP) — When firemen arrived at a house fire here, they found the homeowner warding them off with a bow and arrow.

Fred Rister, 36, was standing in front of the burning house and garage, where he kept firemen, police and sheriff's officers at bay for more than half an hour Monday, authorities said.

Flammable liquid was found spread through the house and garage, the spokesman said.

Water does not get in a crocodile's ears because it has flaps which can be closed tight when necessary.

Speaking of Your Health...

Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Linked to Wife's Disease

A few weeks after my last 'Pap" test, I received a note from the nurse asking me to contact her immediately.

I was frightened, and had already resigned myself to death before I made that telephone call.

With relief, I finally learned that I had a "Trichomona" condition that caused a vaginal discharge.

My husband and I were then given pills for our social disease. Can you tell us more about this condition, and why the husband is involved?

Mrs. L.J.S., Fla.

Dear Mrs. S.:

There are very specific aspects of this letter that intrigue me and unfold some of the aspects of the practice of medicine that need to be remedied.

The nurse should have called you rather than have written to you. Her letter rightfully induced the unnecessary anxiety that so obviously distressed you.

A reassuring call from her would have spared you the palpitating concern associated with such a message.

"Pap," or Papanicolaou, test is a smear of the lining of the vagina and the cervix of the uterus.

The Pap test is basically used to detect early cancer cells. Thousands of women are now alive and stand as testimonial to the brilliance of the test devised by the famous Dr. Papanicolaou.

I am sure you are being facetious when you refer to a trichomona infection as a "social disease."

You should have been told that it does not have any implication of a venereal condition.

It is caused by a protozoon, trichomonas vaginalis, which is responsible for most cases of persistent vaginal discharge.

The drugs now used are effective in the control of the condition.

For many years the husbands were overlooked as possible carriers of the trichomonas. The result was that their wives were constantly being reinfected.

Today treatment is devoted to both the husband and the wife to destroy the protozoon that causes this distressing, but not serious condition.

Would you discuss "diabetes insipidus"? Is it related to the diabetes that we commonly hear about?

Mrs. E.J., Ohio

Dear Mrs. J.:

Diabetes insipidus is not related to the more common condition, diabetes mellitus.

The insipidus form is due to a disorder of the pituitary gland. The millitus form is due to a disorder of the pancreas.

Diabetes insipidus is characterized by the excretion of a tremedous quantity of urine, and by excessive thirst. Doctors must rule out the possibility that an emotional or psychological condition may cause some people to compulsively consume vast quantities of water.

The basic reason for diabetes insipidus can now be found by many of the complex tests available. Few conditions are as demanding as tracking down the hormone disturbances that accompany this rare disorder.

300 prison inmates get home holiday

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The Department of Offender Rehabilitation has announced it will allow 300 Georgia prison inmates to spend Thanksgiving with their families this year.

Commissioner Ellis MacDougall said Monday the inmates will be granted a 36-hour special leave. He added that the program involves only trusties and work releases who have been scrutinized by their wardens and by classification specialists.

Cronkite has small benign tumor removed

NEW YORK (AP) — CBS Television newsman Walter Cronkite has had a small, benign tumor removed from his neck.

CBS disclosed Monday that the operation took place at Lenox Hill Hospital last week and that the 56-year-old newsmen had been advised by his doctors to stay at home and rest for a few days.

Acting FBI chief rests in hospital

NEW LONDON, Conn. (AP) — L. Patrick Gray, the acting director of the FBI, has been hospitalized for a possible intestinal obstruction, but doctors say there are no plans to operate at this time.

Gray was taken to Lawrence and Memorial Hospital Sunday night after complaining of abdominal pains while at his home in Stonington, Conn.

Data processing purchases probed

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—A Cuyahoga County prosecutor's office investigation has discovered questionable purchasing practices in the county data processing center, county prosecutor's aides reported.

John L. Dowling, assistant prosecutor, said the purchases date back to the time Mayor Ralph Perk presided over the center as county auditor and that the practices might constitute violation of state law.

Sen. William Proxmire opens state journey

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Sen. William Proxmire has started what he says will be a 1,200-mile walk-and-run journey through Wisconsin with an early morning jog along Milwaukee streets.

The Wisconsin Democrat took several breaks at dawn Monday to shake the hands of workers arriving for work at factories along his route, greeting constituents with "Hi, I'm Bill Proxmire."

Pheasant population suddenly increases

BERNARDSTON, Mass. (AP) — The wild pheasant population of Franklin County in western Massachusetts is suddenly bigger.

Three hundred sixty of the birds were emancipated when 10 inches of snow crushed the roof of their brooder at the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Sully.

The birds were worth $1,290, the price game preserves and restaurants would have paid for them, Sully said.

Profit reports embarrassing

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — While the past year has been one of financial progress for both management and labor, the big increases in corporate profits that are now being reported are producing irritation and embarrassment for executives.

They are embarrassed because the percentage increases are so great. It now appears likely that the increase for 1972 over 1971 will be about 15 per cent. And there is the likelihood of a repeat in 1973.

While corporate officials concede these figures are high, they are irritated by the failure of casual readers to recall the reason why: 1971 profits were depressingly low.

They are indignant also that labor leaders are inclined to seize on those percentages without explaining that what appears to be a mountain of profits has its base in a very deep ravine — that is, in the recession of 1971.

Actually, they add, profits should be even higher if they are to return to more "normal" levels and if industry is to attract the investment capital needed for expansion.

Price Commission regulations, however, may prevent that occurence, although some changes might be forthcoming in Phase III, if there is one.

As of now, profit margins must be kept to the average of the best two of the years 1968-1969-1970. But, as the corporate officials note, that was a period of poor earnings. Many of them want the base period revised.

If profits rise 15 per cent this year, the corporate defenders say, it will merely bring them back to where they were in 1968, when the gross national product, or total of goods and services produced, was considerably smaller.

Dr. Albert H. Cox Jr., a former Nixon administration economists and now executive vice president of Lionel D. Edie & Co., as well as senior adviser economic to Merrill Lynch, would like to see the Phase II base period changed.

If it were pushed back to include 1966 and 1967, he observes, it would then permit corporations to use two more rewarding years as the base for measuring permissable profit margins.

Although some industries, such as airlines and aircraft products, have a long way to go before reaching their profit margin limits, others, such as pharmaceuticals and furniture are already pressing against the lid.

Travelers face red tape battle

By WERNER VOLLMANN
Associated Press Writer

VIENNA (AP) — Travel for a Westerner may be occasionally troublesome, but this is nothing compared to the battle with red tape an East European traveler encounters, if he just goes from one Communist country to another.

The Slovak Association of Journalists recently issued what it called "a recipe for avoiding difficulties with passport and customs control" which lists so many things to do that it might in fact discourage anybody from making the trip in the first place.

The Association's biweekly publication Vyber Z Domacej A Zahranicnej Tlace listed the regulations applying in the various East European countries, which in the case of the Soviet Union alone covered 21 lines.

The hard-core measures are nearly the same in every East European country: Each wants to know who crosses the border, watches that not too much of its national currency is taken out, nor rare consumer goods which the East European countries prefer to sell in the West for hard currency.

RED TAPE starts at home.

Czechoslovaks have to file customs and foreign currency declarations; in some cases they must also have exit permits. Anyone intending to take a gift exceeding $20 along must obtain permission.

Anyone wanting to visit the Soviet Union or Poland must have a visa. Joining a tour of a state travel agency makes this relatively simple. But anyone who wants to visit privately must have an invitation authenticated by the Soviet militia.

The situation becomes even more complicated as far as money is concerned. Limits are set by each country how many zlotys, lei, leva, ruble, forints or East marks can be exchanged daily.

Returning travelers again have to watch out that they do not conflict with foreign currency regulations.

Bulgarians allow only 50 leva taken out of the country. Hungarians are willing to part with 200 forints but the bank notes must not be larger than 20-forint notes. Poles have a limit of 1,000 zlotys. East Germans set 250 East marks as the limit, Romania 500 lei and the Soviet Union 60 rubles.

While Bulgarians, Hungarians, Romanians and the Soviets seem unconcerned about the reading habits of their visitors, the East Germans and Poles ban any printed material from "non-Socialist" countries "if it endangers peace and Socialism or consists of maps discriminatory to the German Democratic Republic (East Germany) and other Socialist States."

Poles, East Germans and the Soviets have long lists of what travelers may carry along in their luggage.

BOTTLES bearing the name of a foreign product can not be brought into Poland, the Soviets say "njet" to three overcoats, and the East German authorities do not like records made in West Germany or West Berlin. Records made in the West can only be taken along if "they represent a cultural heritage or progressive contemporary ideas."

Hungary, Bulgaria and Romania seem to have no special restrictions there. They, as the other three, limit goods the traveler might want to take out of the country, however.

Bulgaria, for instance, bans music instruments from being exported.

Poland requires a special permit for exports of china, glassware and fur coats, the Soviets block export of reindeer antlers and sable fur coats, and Hungary insists a tourist must not take out more than one half kilo of salami sausage.

Because hardboard has a dense surface, is without grain and has no knots or other natural imperfections, it is often assumed that it does not require a primer coat preliminary to painting.

Good sealing by a primer is necessary to prevent uneven absorption of the top coat. Shellac is often used as the primer. So are latex paints. Many enamel undercoaters and varnish or alkyd-base primers and sealers also are satisfactory. Flat paints, semi-gloss and glass enamels and similar types of top coats should not be used as primers even though they do have some sealing properties.

With the standard type of hardboard, used indoors where strong moisture resistance is not required, a single top coat over the primer usually will suffice. But with tempered hardboard, used outdoors and where moisture resistance and extra hardness are desired, two coats of regular paint should be used over the primer.

IN SOME cases, hardobard is factory-primed. You'll know it because the dealer tells you so; it is marked that way, and it will cost a little more than the nonprimed material. When factory-primed hardboard is delivered to your home, inspect it carefully to see whether any of the primer has been damaged in handling.

If so, spot prime it with a suitable sealer before applying the finishing coat. The same thing goes if you should mar the hardboard when putting it up or otherwise working on it.

When there are any irregularities in the primer coat (run your fingers over it after it has dried), sand it lightly before applying the top coat. This is especially important when the final coat is to be gloss enamel.

Some persons like the appearance of hardboard and do not wish to change its color. Others, using it in laundry rooms or as workbench tops, feel that painting is not necessary. Both groups are advised that the application of a penetrating wood sealer will seal the hardboard for protection against dirt and grease. The penetrating sealer is good because it does not build up a surface film which could be scratched or worn away.

WHEN repainting hardboard, follow the same practices as with natural wood. That is, if the original paint surface is in good condition, all that is necessary is to remove all dirt and grease. No primer is required. But if the paint is peeling in spots, remove all loose material, sanding the edges to form a smooth surface with the good areas. Prime, then paint.

Remember that peeling paint is a sign of moisture. The source of this moisture should be located and eliminated before repainting, otherwise you'll have to do the job all over again in a few months.

Man gives self up after farewell party

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Before John R. Cayetano surrendered on charges of bank robbery, his friends and relatives gave him a going away party.

Cayetano, 31, was honored at a farewell dinner at his parents' East Los Angeles home after his family learned he was sought by authorities.

After dinner, Cayetano's brother, Fernando, telephoned the FBI and said his brother was ready to surrender.

American art gaining

By EVE SHARBUTT
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Americans have stopped borrowing their culture from Europe, according to John Marion, auctioneer - president of Sotheby Parke-Bernet.

Looking over record-high sales for American Week at the auction gallery, Marion said people in the United States are beginning to take pride in their own cultural heritage and "it's about time they did.

"Almost anything among American artifacts, except perhaps American silver, has grown an extraordinary amount in value. More people are buying and more people are looking today — four times as many as there were, for example, in 1961," he added.

Prices are increasing along with numbers of collectors. Many items in the American Week sale went for 50 per cent above their pre-sale estimates.

In the recent week-long American art event, four record sales were made.

A PAINTING by Thomas Pollock Anshutz, "Steelworkers — Noontime" from about 1880, was sold to the Kennedy Galleries for a southern collector for $250,000. The previous record for a painting was $210,000, shared by an Eakins and a Copley.

Two American watercolors went for record prices. Charles Burchfield's "Black Iron," painted in 1935, and Winslow Homer's "Gallows Island (Bermuda)" painted about 1900, both went for $65,000. Previous watercolor record sale was $36,000.

"Coming Through The Rye," a bronze made in 1902 by Frederic Remington, was sold to the Antique Procelain Co. for $125,000. The previous record, for another cast of the same sculpture, was $84,000.

"The purchaser of that bronze was an individual who previously was identified only with European art — porcelain at that. He told me before the sale he was interested in 'these cowboys' and we joked about it. But people well known as collectors of Remington or of Western art wouldn't have been familiar with his name,' Marion said.

"So more people who have never collected Americana before are looking into it."

THE FOURTH record sale was a Goddard-Townsend mahogany block-and-shell carved kneehole desk made about 1760. An American collector paid $120,000 for the desk. Another, similar design had been previously sold for $104,000.

A pair of side chairs made for George Washington while he was President sold for $29,000.

"About $23,000 of that price was for nostalgia," Marion said. "The other $6,000 was for the chairs themselves. But each generation makes its own nostalgia."

The auctioneer said that until the successful Americana week sale, his favorite had been a 1961 auction event.

"Interest in Americana has vastly increased since that time. More people are buying. Even if they are buying only for investment purposes, after a few years they sell off their bad pieces. They get to know their field or specialty as well as any expert," Marion added.

"The collection of Lansdell K. Christie, which we sold during Americana week, was an example. He formed the entire thing during a 10-year period. He bought the best from the best sources and almost created the American furniture market himself.

"His judgment was vindicated during the sale. A record total from the auction of 92 items from his collection was realized: $947,295.

ACCUSTOMED to routinely knocking down items worth hundreds of thousands of dollars, the SPB president says he takes each bid as it comes, even secret signs agreed on before hand, and tries to be fair to everyone.

"The only people who are distressed with me are people who wish they had gone higher to get something they wanted," Marion explained.

He said the interest in American art had grown steadily during the past 12 years.

"It is a new milestone in American awareness that this is a young country. Respect for traditions is growing, too."

GM catalog gets change

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— General Motors Corp. dealer catalogs are no longer advertising the competition, although a color blind customer might never have noticed the difference.

The original two-page layout in GM's Oldsmobile division 1973 catalog pictured a front end loader working in the background with a sleek 1973 Olds Delta 88 Royale two-door coupe in the foreground.

A second printing shows the same car in almost the same position sitting in front of another front end loader. But the first loader was yellow, and the second green.

Yellow machinery is manufactured by the Caterpillar Tractor Co., while the green loaders are built by the Terex division of GM.

An Oldsmobile spokesman admitted that the photo was changed because "someone thought it would be nice to feature another GM product rather than a leading competitor's." But he said a second printing was normal practice and that no pressure had been involved in the change.

Death penalty 'up in air'

By JOHN EAGAN
Associated Press Writer

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) California's voters have made it crystal clear they favor capital punishment, but the legal situation remains cloudy on whether the gas chamber ever will be used again in the state.

By a 2-1 margin on Nov. 7, the voters approved Proposition 17 — an amendment to the California Constitution specifying that the death penalty cannot be banned as "cruel or unusual punishment."

The vote nullified a 6-1 California Supreme Court decision handed down nine months earlier. But there is sharp disagreement over what effect it has in relation to the U.S. Supreme Court's 5-4 decision June 29.

In ruling on three separate cases — one murder conviction and two nonfatal rapes — the majority opinion said simply: "The court holds that the imposition and carrying out of the death penalty in these cases constitutes cruel and unusual punishment in violation of the 8th and 14th Amendments."

The 8th Amendment bans cruel and unusual punishment and the 14th guarantees citizens due process and equal protection under the law.

Some opponents of capital punishment — including the American Civil Liberties Union—contend the ruling outlawed the death penalty—period. Other authorities, including California Atty. Gen. Evelle J. Younger, contend the ruling means the death penalty is unconstitutional only as it had been imposed and administered.

Younger says that means capital punishment is barred only when a judge or jury has an option on whether a convicted defendant is sentenced to death or life imprisonment.

Michael Franchetti, a deputy attorney general researching the issue, said in an interview that the U.S. Supreme Court actually handed down a total of 11 separate opinions on the death penalty — nine individual opinions, one majority opinion and one minority opinion.

"It left everything up in the air," Franchetti said. "We think the court is going to have to come down with another decision to make it clear what they really think."

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger — who dissented from the high court's ruling — set that same tone last June when he said, "The future of capital punishment in this country has been left in an uncertain limbo. Rather than providing a final and unambiguous answer on the basic constitutional question, the collective impact of the majority's ruling is to demand an undetermined measure of change form the various state legislatures and the Congress."

Franchetti said Prop. 17 "reinstated all death penalty statutes, but there is some doubt as to how many state statutes are in effect in view of the U.S. Supreme Court decision."

He said passage of Proposition 17 does not specifically require implementing legislation, but two leading supporters of capital punishment — Republican Sens. H.L. Richardson of Arcadia and George Deukmejian of Long Beach — say they will introduce bills in January as followups to passage of Prop. 17.

On the other side of the issue, attorney Anthony Amsterdam, has pledged that the first death penalty sentence in California will be appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court. Amsterdam, a Stanford professor, was a moving force behind the legal battle that prompted the decisions by the state and U.S. Supreme Courts.

The American Civil Liberties Union also has pledged court fights against reactivating San Quentin's apple green gas chamber, where 188 men and four women have died — the last in April 1967.

No matter what the outcome, it will have no effect on the 102 men and 3 women whose sentences were commuted to life imprisonment by the California Supreme Court's decision.

They included Charles Manson, convicted of the slayings of actress Sharon Tate and six others, and Sirhan B. Sirhan, assassin of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

'Banking Row' in 1922: present site of First Federal

On Dec. 9, 1922, ten Washington C. H. businessmen and Fayette County farmers each took $1,000 worth of stock and formed the First Federal Savings and Loan Co.

Now, 50 years later, the First Federal Savings and Loan Association, its successor, has grown from that inauspicious beginning into a financial institution with assets of more than $17,375,000 and mortgage loans totaling approximately $14,086,000. And from those 10 founding stockholders, it has grown to a mutual association with more than 4,000 depositor - members. (In mutual associations each depositor becomes a member.)

The founders, each of whom contributed $1,000 for 10 shares of stock, were C. Pearce Ballard, Glenn M. Pine, John H. Sheppard, George A. Robinson, George H. Hitchcock, Rell G. Allen, Albert R. McCoy, Ed Fite, Glenn B. Rodgers, David S. Craig, Ben Jamison, O. H. Robbins, Eph Worthington, Frank L. Stutson, George R. Cox and Thomas H. Craig.

D. S. Craig was the first president, Ballard the vice president, Pine the secretary - treasurer and Allen the attorney.

THREE MONTHS later, on Feb. 9, 1923, the directors purchased the lease of the Bolen Meat Market and set up the office at 111 N. Fayette St. The room was leased from Mary Bauman Chapman at $55 a month for five years and the fledgling company was in business in a room formerly occupied by a meat market.

The company soon outgrew its original offices in the former meat market on Fayette Street and in 1928 purchased the fixtures and lease from the Fayette County Bank at about the location of the present offices, 134 E. Court St.

The building was purchased in 1960 and was remodeled — virtually rebuilt — in 1963 as one of the most modern and pretentious buildings in the central business district.

Four of the first four applications for real estate loans were approved on May 11, 1923, for a total of $12,850.

SALARIES in those early days, $1,800 for the secretary and $12.50 a week for the bookeeper, were a far cry from those of today.

Time brought changes in the organization. McCoy was named to the board of directors to fill the vacancy created by the death of Hitchcock, and W. L. Stinson was named to succeed Ballard as vice president.

Nine years after the company was founded it had assets of $678,863. Then came the depression and dividends were reduced first to one per cent in 1933 and the next year were passed over entirely.

Leonard Korn was named secretary to succeed Pine in 1934 and that same year was elected to the board to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Rodgers.

AS AN aftermath of the trying days of the depression, the First Federal Savings and Loan Co. was issued a charter in May, 1939, to become a mutual association under the name of First Federal Savings and Loan Association, the status it holds today.

Changes continued among the officers and directors. When Korn resigned as secretary, R. Burris Tharp was named in his place, but when Tharp resigned about a year later, Korn returned to the position and Tharp and Willard S. Willis were elected to the board. Hoy O. Simon joined the board in 1946.

Walter F. Rettig was named the secretary and managing officer of the association May 8, 1944, a position he held until he resigned in January 1971. He is now chairman of the board.

Harold Thompson was named to succeed him and is now the executive vice president and secretary.

OFFICERS of the association today are William A. Lovell, president; A. H. Finley, first vice president; R. M. Meriweather, second vice president; and Thompson executive vice president and secretary.

The First Federal Savings and Loan Co. started in business with a secretary and bookkeeper. Now 50 years later it has Thompson as the secretary; Larry Long, assistant secretary; Miss Mary Frances Snider, treasurer; Mrs. Louise Pope, head teller, and James R. Smith, Mrs. Carole Arnold and Miss Jodi Hyer, tellers.

Cincy men face Bogus Bill charge

CINCINNATI (AP) — Two printers were free on bond today after they were charged with possession $47,500 in counterfeit money.

The U.S. Secret Service said $25,000 worth of identical counterfeit money, in $10 bills, was confiscated last week in New York City.

Bond was set by a U.S. Magistrate at $1,000 each for Theron Johnson, 29, and Monroe Pinkleton, 51, both of Cincinnati.

Liquor workers get new contract

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Some 300 state liquor store clerks on strike since Monday agreed to return to their jobs in northeast Ohio today because of a 14-month, $1 million contract.

The pact was worked out Monday in negotiations in Columbus between representatives of the state Liquor Control Department and the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes.

The strike closed for two days 24 of the 56 stores and warehouses in Lorain, Cuyahoga, Ashland, Medina, Lake, Geauga, Ashtabula and Wayne Counties, accordint to Richard Redway, executive assistant in charge of retail stores and warehouses in the eight-county area.

Three veterans to form MT's cage nucleus

Panthers open card with Jets Saturday

By MIKE FLYNN
Record-Herald Sports Editor

Three returning lettermen, two of whom were full-timers a year ago, bolster Miami Trace's chanced in the 1972-73 campaign.

The Panthers, who figure to be one of two South Central Ohio League favorites, will open the new season Saturday night when they play host to Springfield's Northeastern Jets.

Miami Trace was scheduled to open its season Friday night at Columbus Watterson, but that school meets Akron St. Vincent-St. Mary in the first-ever state football playoffs.

THE GAME has been rescheduled for Tuesday night and that contest plus ones against Columbus Brookhaven, Springfield Northeastern London, Franklin Heights, Columbus Bishop Hartley and Madison Plains gives Miami Trace the toughest non-league slate in the SCOL.

Pete Jones, a smooth-shooting 6-foot-1 senior, tops the list of holdovers for head coach Jan Stauffer who is entering his third season as Miami Trace's boss.

Jones, who will be employed at both guard and forward positions this year landed All-SCOL second team accolades a year ago and was the fifth leading scoreboy in the league with neat 14.6 credentials.

Muff Jones, a slender 6-foot-3 inside ace, is another of Stauffer's holdovers from last year's 10-8 team which finished in second place in the SCOL hassle with a nifty 8-2 chart.

Glenn Gifford, a scrambling 5-foot-9 senior, was a regular last season and will no doubt be a starter when he recovers from a sprained ankle. The speedy backcourt whiz suffered the injury in a scrimmage at Jackson and is expected to return in about two weeks.

Stauffer also has 5-foot-9 senior guard Jeff Spears and husky Rick Cottrill, a 6-foot-1 senior pivotman plus a number of sparkling juniors elevated from Miami Trace's SCOL champion reserve team. Both Spears and Cottrill saw considerable action last year.

DAVE PERSINGER, a lanky 6-foot-4 junior, is one of the top prospects from the 12-6 reserve team. The big junior is expected to nail down the starting pivot position.

Others at Stauffer's disposal include Steve Mowery, a 5-10 junior guard; Doug Baker, a 5-10 junior guard; David Steinhauser, a 6-0 junior guard; Jeff King, a 6-1 junior forward; and Randy Reiber, a 6-2 junior forward.

The Miami Trace boss, who will be assisted this year by Charlie Andrews, feels that boardwork and quickness on the fast break will be the team's strengths.

He also said the Panthers must eliminate mental mistakes and turnovers to become a solid SCOL contender.

Ali beats Foster in 8-round duel

STATELINE, Nev. (AP) — Former heavyweight champion Muhammed Ali still charges that Joe Frazier, the only man who has beaten him, is wearing a crown "too heavy for his brow."

But Bob Foster, who lost by an eighth-round knockout to Ali Tuesday night, landed a left jab that cut the ex-champ early in the fight and later cut Ali with his remarks.

Tyler is selected defensive player

NEW YORK (AP) — "I've been trying to get two interceptions in one game all year," said rookie Buffalo safety Maurice Tyler, "and I finally did it."

He couldn't have done it at a more opportune time. He did it last Sunday against New England. The first one led to a touchdown and the second one, coming in the final seconds with the game tied, set up John Leypoldt's 45-yard field goal that carried the Bills past the Patriots 27-24. And in between, Tyler made nine unassisted tackles and assisted on a 10th.

For his outstanding performance, Tyler was name today as The Associated Press Defensive Player of the Week in the National Football League.

East Clinton to purchase home gridiron

LEES CREEK — Weather premitting, when the East Clinton football team takes the field next fall, it will do so on home territory, literally.

Since the school started its varsity football program in the mid-1960s, the Astros have been a team in search of a home field, playing "home" games at Wilmington College, Wilmington High School or Clinton Massie.

The East Clinton school board has approved the purchase of two tracts of land at the rear of the high school property for the purpose of constructing a football field with existing school funds.

According to Superintendent George Greer, the East Clinton boosters club will furnish field lighting and other maintenance under the direction of William Flint, of New Vienna, at an estimated cost of $15,000 which will be raised through fund drives.

The board hopes to place a bond issue on the May primary ballot for funds to develop the new site.

Five games on tap this week

MT, Lions SCOL's cage favorites

By MIKE FLYNN
Record-Herald Sports Editor

There always seems to be someone with flashy veteran rosters in the prestigious South Central Ohio League basketball race. And it's getting to be an annual nightmare for the others.

Last season, Greenfield McClain was the deep one, and crafty head coach Sam Snyder's boys rolled to their first SCOL championship in 18 years.

Well, oh ye believers of SCOL basketball, a twin treat if you will; Miami Trace and Washington C.H. have everyone else oohing, ahing and doing a little moaning, too, with the stable of returning talent they have for the 45th running of the SCOL basketball sweepstakes.

HEAD COACH Jan Stauffer, in his third year as Miami Trace's cage boss, has some sterling holdovers in his veteran-healthy list of three returning lettermen and a pair of returning starters to have him a shade ahead of the others during the pre-season rating game.

Washington C.H. has an even longer veteran sheet. The Blue Lions return six lettermen, including a gang of five full-timers who started at least 10 games a year ago.

The SCOL title fuss figures to be the tighest in 10 years, but the new champion should be one of the Fayette County teams.

Five SCOL members will open preparations for this year's season's title bash this week.

Washington C.H.'s Blue Lions will travel to Portsmouth and defending champion Greenfield will visit always-tough Ross Southeastern on Wednesday night.

Miami Trace's Panthers were scheduled to open Friday night, but the game was postponed since Columbus Watterson is participating in the state's first-ever football playoffs. The Panthers will open their season Saturday by entertaining Springfield Northeastern.

ELSEWHERE on Saturday, Circleville travels to Westfall and Wilmington plays host to Xenia.

The SCOL chase opens Dec. 1 and the schedule sends Circleville to Wilmington, Greenfield to Washington C.H. and Hillsboro to Miami Trace.

What has the other SCOL bosses faint-hearted is that Miami Trace has slippery All-SCOL guard Pete Jones back in the fold. The 6-foot-1 shotmaker was worth 14.6 points per game last winter wiich ranked fifth in the loop statistics.

Also returning are a pair of slick backcourt aces in Jeff Spears and Glenn Gifford and smooth inside ace Muff Jones in hopes if improving 10-8 all-games record and 8-2 record inside the SCOL.

Head coach Gary Shaffer boasts Chuck Bath, the team's leading scoreboy, and Joe Downs, both All-SCOL honorable mention a year ago, returning to form the nucleus of this year's team. Three other full-timers are back to bolster Shaffer's fifth Washington C.H. version which will be hoping to better a 6-12 record posted a year ago.

MAC's all-stars selected

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Mid-American coaches today announced the most experienced, explosive and, with 48 players, largest all-conference football team in history.

There were 11 unanimous selections and 14 repeaters, both new highs.

Dominating the holdovers were a quartet of players making the squad for the third consecutive season, including Ohio University's Dave Juenger.

Juenger became the only player to make the all-conference team at three different positions. He was an all-league split end as a sophomore, second team quarterback last year and now is a first-string flanker.

The other players making the squad for three years in a row were offensive tackle Don Caldwell of Ohio, Miami of Ohio center Mike Poff and Western Michigan offensive guard Larry Ulmer.

One of the unanimous choices was Miami tailback Bob Hitchens, the nation's leading rusher with 137 yards a game this season. A junior, he has gained 2,527 yards and 28 touchdowns in just two varsity seasons.

A great number of freshmen saw considerable playing time in the league this fall, but only one, Kent Stat's Walt Vrabel, could make the all-conference squad.

Vrabel, a 6-foot-4, 265-pound product of Campbell, Ohio, made the MAC second defensive team.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Here are the 1972 Mid-American Conference football all-stars selected by the league's head coaches:

FIRST TEAM OFFENSE — Tight end Gary Pinkel, Kent State; wide receiver Jeff Calabrese, Toledo; tackles Don Caldwell, Ohio University, and John Czerwinski, Bowling Green; guards Larry Ulmer, Western Michigan, and Fred Sturt, Bowling Green; center Fred Hicks, Western-Michigan; quarterback Bruce Arthur, Toledo; running backs Bob Hitchens, Miami of Ohio; Larry Cates, Western Michigan; Paul Miles, Bowling Green, and Joe Schwartz, Toledo; flanker Dave Juenger, Ohio.

FIRST TEAM DEFENSE — Linemen Steve Kovacs, Miami; Bernie Thomas and Dan Arbour, Western Michigan; Tom Hall, Bowling Green, and Willie Duke, Toledo; linebackers Jack Lambert, Kent State, and Dom Riggio, Western Michigan; backs Ron Karlis, Western Michigan; Pete Alsup, Toledo; Bert Dampier, Ohio, and Dan Rebsch, Miami.

SECOND TEAM OFFENSE — Tight ends Don Seymour, Toledo, and Greg Meczka, Bowling Green; wide receiver John Viher, Miami; tackles Dan Willging and Mike Biehle, Miami; guards Paul Mollmann, Miami, and Gary Turner, Kent; center Mike Poff, Miami; quarterback Rich Bevly, Ohio; running backs Phil Polak, Bowling Green, and Larry Poole, Kent State; flanker Bill Pittman, Bowling Green.

SECOND TEAM DEFENSE — Linemen Walt Vrabel, Kent State; Earl Hargrove, Bowling Green; Jeff Beams, Ohio; John Saccomen, Miami, and Steve Donahue, Toledo; linebackers John Villapiano, Bowling Green, and Mike Monos, Miami; backs Denny Costello, Miami; Jim Mulinix, Toledo; Myron Wilson, Bowling Green, and Alonzo Curry and Mike Perlin, Kent State.

Cincinnati Reds looking for way to boost pitching

CINCINNATI (AP) — The National League champion Cincinnati Reds are looking for pitchers but, having scant success, according to General Manager Bob Howsam.

"Our club is looking to strengthen our pitching," Howsam told a news luncheon at Riverfront Stadium Tuesday.

"We've talked to some ball clubs," he said, "but I don't find too many clubs interested in trades."

Howsam noted the major league baseball winter meetings begin Sunday in Hawaii, and traditionally are fertile ground for player trades.

"I think there's some room for strengthening our starting pitching," Howsam said, "and that's what we're going to be looking for over in Hawaii.

The Reds had no standout starting pitcher in 1972, despite mounting a late season runaway in the National League's Western Division.

Gary Nolan, ace of the Reds' young staff, roared to a 14-3 record before the All-Star break in midsummer, but won only one more game thereafter while fighting stiffness and pain in his shoulder and neck.

Don Gullett, a hard-throwing 21-year-old lefthander with great potential, suffered an attack of hepatitis early in the season and never fully recovered his strength.

Jack Billingham, who came to the Reds from Houston along with speedy second baseman Joe Morgan in a trade last winter, performed well in late season after a slow start, and finished with a 12-12 record.

Lefthander Ross Grimsley showed flashes of brilliance, but, at 22-years-old, is not counted on yet as a stopper.

Lumber industry faces crackdown

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Price Commission says it will take "significant action" because of widespread price-control violations and illegal business practices in the lumber industry.

The commission said Monday it has found a 30-per-cent violation rate in price and profit reports filed by lumber companies subject to price controls.

"There's a little bit of greed throughout the system," said Peter Carpenter, the commission's deputy executive director who headed a special review of the lumber industry.

Carpenter said the review showed "the level of noncompliance is higher than in other industries" and that violations appeared to be scattered throughout various segments of the lumber industry.

The Cost of Living Council reimposed price controls on the industry in June after it was dissatisfied with pricing practices during a period free of the controls.

The commission said the Internal Revenue Service has launched its own probe and plans 367 separate investigations, more than in any other industry.

Price violations cited by the commission included increasing prices without first clearing them with the commission, a procedure required for companies with annual revenues over $100 million.

Other violations, it said, were: exceeding profit-margin limitations; exceeding allowable markups; and, in the case of companies with less than $100 million annual revenues, increasing prices without adequate cost justification.

Illegal business practices alleged by the commission included pyramid wholesaling in which the same carload of wood products is sold back and forth between two or more lumber wholesalers, with a markup added each time, before the carload is sold to the customer.

The commission also cited instances of "paper" transactions for sales of wood products to outlets in Canada although the products never left the country; schemes to ship lumber of poor quality; and false justification of cost increases through intra-company transfers.

The emu is the second largest bird in the world. The male sits on the eggs and after they hatch, he takes care of the chicks.

The fennec is a small fox with very large ears. It lives in the desert.

GREAT TIRE BUYS

MONTGOMERY WARD

FULL 4-PLY NYLON CORD RUNABOUT

TREAD WEAR EXPECTANCY

Because of variable driving habits and road conditions under which tires are used, it is impractical for Montgomery Ward, and conceivably misleading to our customers, to guarantee any specific number of months or miles of tread wear. We can, however, indicate the wear potential we have built into our tires in terms of service in normal family use. If a Riverside tire wears down to the tread wear indicators during the Tread Wear Expectancy, Montgomery Ward will upon presentation of the tire and evidence of date of purchase replace the tire for the then current price less the following dollar allowance:

Tread Wear Expectancy	Tread Wearout Allowance Prorated on
40,000 miles	Miles Driven
45 month	$13.00
40 month	10.00
39 month	8.00
36 month	6.00
33 month	5.00
30 month	4.00
24 month	3.00
18 month	2.00

Tread Wear Expectancy offer does not apply to tires used commercially.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. Alan Abel don't raise much cain. They live quietly on Manhattan's West Side. Occasionally, they notify television and newspaper assignment editors about something.

It is at this point things begin to stir. You may recall reading or seeing reports in 1964 and 1968 about the Best Party's presidential candidate, Mrs. Yetta Bronstein, whose slogan was: "Put a Mother in the White House." Mrs. Bronstein really was Mrs. Abel.

In 1959, her husband, using his own name, stirred up much coverage of his vigorous campaign to cloth naked animals. He headed the Society for Indecency to Animals and appeared on many television talk shows.

Some 10 years later, his campaign still was puttering along. He appeared on "The Merv Griffin Show" and warned the audience: "A nude horse is a rude horse." Griffin knew it was a gag.

But a lot of people still don't, excluding assignment editors here who live in mortal fear of the next move from the Abels. The reason is that the moves have enough apparent truth to make them seem legitimate, albeit somewhat daft or bizarre.

But Abel considers the naked animal coverup his best work: "I only had to have one little picture of a horse in Bermuda shorts and I could walk into any television show. They practically put me right on the air."

What started his life as a dedicated hoaxer?

"It's difficult to say," he mused. "I guess the key word is frustration. I originally was a performer and not getting anywhere. I found out that if you were a little eccentric or crazy you could attract attention. The Society gave me a platform of sorts."

The Abels' assorted campaigns occasionally result in unsolicited public donations. He sends them all back, but says the Internal Revenue Service has checked his books seven times in the last 10 years.

This, he said, "is because they probably think I've been stealing Lord knows how many thousands of dollars in donations. So I've been suing to make them let me examine their books and records.

A federal judge in Los Angeles dismissed the suit as "frivolous," but Abel said he may appeal the judge's ruling.

Sentence woman to find hazards

MIAMI (AP) — A Miami woman charged with negligence when a 3-year-old boy suffocated in her abandoned ice box has been told to clear her record by finding 10 more abandoned refrigerators and reporting them to police.

Earline Clark, 35, a mother of two toddlers, pleaded guilty to negligence in the death of Ulysses S. Davis last July 27 and was placed on probation in criminal court.

At the request of prosecutor Terrence McWilliams, Judge Jack Turner made the hunt for other abandoned refrigerators a condition of her probation. She will remain on probation for two years if she does not find them.

Canned hams should not be frozen. Their labels should be checked for storage instructions.

1967 air crash survivor hasn't been on plane since

By JOHN W. CHACE
Associated Press Writer

FLORENCE, Ky. (AP)—Robert Hart of Ashland, Ky., hasn't flown in an airplane since five years ago today.

He said he doesn't "think" he is afraid to fly but has traveled long distances by other means since Nov. 20, 1967, when a Trans World Airlines jet carrying him and 81 other persons crashed near Greater Cincinnati Airport. Seventy were killed.

"If I fly I would like for it to be on a TWA to convince myself I have no fear," said Hart, an Internal Revenue Service agent. He was badly burned when the Convair 880 plowed into a fruit orchard short of the airport runway.

"My wife and I would get on the same plane and take off but I guess I really wouldn't know if I were scared until I set foot on the plane," Hart said.

Although still experiencing considerable pain because of a leg injured in the crash, Hart said he and other survivors would "just as soon dismiss it from our minds."

Hart did recall the outstanding response of people wanting to donate blood for the survivors, most of whom live outside the Greater Cincinnati-Northern Kentucky area. The response reminded Hart of a air crash near Huntington, W. Va., Nov. 14, 1970, in which 75 people, including nearly all the Marshall University football team, were killed.

HISTORIC RESTORATION — Historic Kennedy gold mine tailing wheel in Jackson, Calif., dwarfs workmen repairing it. A bearing block which had split is being replaced with one measuring 10 feet long and weighing 850 pounds.

C&SOE given permit to build 2 stations

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Environmental Protection Agency today granted its first permits to a utility under the state's new environmental protection laws.

The Columbus and Southern Electric Co. was given the go-ahead to build two new generating stations at its Conesville facility in Knox County.

The firm promised to meet the state's regulation on sulphur dioxide emissions, EPA director Ira Whitman said. The stations would emit 21,000 pounds of sulphur dioxide an hour without proper anti-pollution devices, Whitman said.

Whitman's office said the permits could boost demand for Ohio coal, which is high in sulphur dioxide. The stations, he said, will control emissions within that allowed by state and federal regulations.

Thanksgiving Proclamation

THE WHITE HOUSE
THANKSGIVING DAY, 1972
BY THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA
A PROCLAMATION

When the first settlers gathered to offer their thanks to the God who had protected them on the edge of a wilderness, they established anew on American shores a thanksgiving tradition as old as Western man himself.

From Moses at the Red Sea to Jesus preparing to feed the multitudes, the Scriptures summon us to words and deeds of gratitude, even before divine blessings are fully perceived. From Washington kneeling at Valley Forge to the prayer of an astronaut circling the moon, our own history repeats that summons and proves its practicality.

Today, in an age of too much fashionable despair, the world more than ever needs to hear America's perennial harvest message: "Take heart! Give thanks! To see clearly about us is to rejoice; and to rejoice is to worship the Father; and to worship Him is to receive more blessings still."

At this Thanksgiving time our country can look back with special gratitude across the events of a year which has brought more progress toward lasting peace than any other year for a generation past; and we can look forward with trust in Divine Providence toward the opportunities which peace will bring.

Truly our cup runs over with the bounty of God—our lives, our liberties, and our loved ones; our worldly goods and our spiritual heritage; the beauty of our land, the breadth of our horizons, and the promise of peace that crowns it all. For all of this, let us now humbly give thanks.

Now, Therefore, I, Richard Nixon, President of the United States of America, in consonance with Section 6103 of Title 5 of the United States Code designating the fourth Thursday of November in each year as Thanksgiving Day, do hereby proclaim Thursday, November 23, 1972, as a day of national thanksgiving. I call upon all Americans to assemble in homes and places of worship on this day, to join in offering gratitude for the countless blessings our people enjoy, and to embrace the elderly and less fortunate as special celebrants the day's events, loving them as well have been loved.

In Witness Whereof, I have hereunto set my hand this seventeenth day of November, in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred seventy-two and of the Independence of the United States of America the one hundred ninety-seven.

Sale of stores to be costly for Kroger Co.

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Kroger Co. president James Herring says the firm's decision to discontinue its Family Center discount department stores will result in an after-tax extra-ordinary charge of about $4 million on this year's balance sheet.

But Herring added Monday that the year-end discontinuance of the chain will produce improved earnings "during 1973 and thereafter."

Kroger is a Cincinnati-based company.

The Family Center stores operate in Texas and Louisiana. Sixteen of the 33 Family Center stores are being converted to Kroger "superstores," five have been sold and the other 12 will be closed at year-end and offered for sale.

Station gets coat of many colors

By IRENE E. SHADOAN
Associated Press Writer

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — With a splash of yellow, a swipe of orange and a bold blue stroke, the Wilmington train station is becoming a revitalized personality of the 1970s without costing the city a cent.

Relying on volunteer efforts, contributions from city residents and a $10,000 grant from the Delaware Arts Council, this northern Delaware city on the Amtrak line between New York and Washington is making its best effort at urban renewal with what it has.

"We're doing this on a nickel and dime basis," said Mayor Harry G. Haskell Jr., who decided a fresh look at the turn-of-the-century maroon brick building was long overdue. "While this is merely a facade and not a panacea for urban ills, it's a step toward making the city a fun place again."

THE PROJECT, whose creator calls it a new image in urban housing, was not No. 1 priority for the city of 79,000, so Haskell did not take the standard routes of asking the city's larger firms to underwrite the cost or of allocating city funds.

"Wilmington has more pressing urban needs requiring city money," explained Haskell. "But you can't discount the psychological effect this has on Wilmingtonians and passengers who ride through our city."

Three months after Haskell, Penn Central officials and the arts council announced the project, some $14,000 in contributions had been collected along with a verbal pledge of $30,000 from Amtrak, the National Railroad Passenger Corp.

However, the city so far has spent less than $10,000 of the money, preferring to operate on a "pay as you go' ' basis.

The Du Pont Co., headquartered in Wilmington, donated about $10,000 in durable paint, Haskell said, and three area contract , are working "at cost" to paint the more difficult or dangerous areas, such as ceilyings.

Before the project, the 70-year-old building owned by the Penn Central was falling into Victorian decay and, despite the influx of new Metroliner, passenger morale at the station "had almost hit ground," according to one station worker.

DIRT had taken control of the edifice, windows stood opaque with grime, passengers could almost smell the heaviness of age. Furthermore, the station, which remains open all night, had become a haven for derelicts seeking a comfortable place to sleep.

Now, with the help of weekend artists such as Rep. Pierre S. du Pont IV, R-Del., blue trains with a storybook look greet travelers as they push through the freshly painted entrance doors.

The station interior, once mired in transportation green and adorned with dusty plastic geraniums, now features an electric blue staircase with bright yellow arrows charging up to the Metroliner platform, now a brilliant yellow, green and orange.

Wilmingtonians driving by the station now see an exterior alive with a monumental swirl of reds, tans and oranges.

"The color is dazzling, astounding," said station master Leonard Flait. "I'm going cross-eyed looking at it."

"Using bright colors costs the same as white or dull shades," explained Haskell. "We want to bring love, color and pride back to our urban areas."

THE DESIGN of the revitalization was created by Environmental Systems International Inc., a Los Angeles planning firm, based on the ideas of Donald Munz, a Pasadena, Calif., Community College professor.

A spokesman for the firm said he hopes the station will be a prelude to a breakthrough in low-income urban housing and there are signs he may get his wish.

Some rowhouses in Wilmington have been repainted recently with bold blues and bright oranges.

Crime up in Kentucky

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Violent crimes increased more than 6 per cent in Kentucky last year, State Police report.

Naturally blind young lobsters grow faster and much larger than sighted ones, according to hatchery experiments conducted by scientists of the Commerce Department's National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration.

REVITALIZED STATION — Wilmington, Del., residents see a more pleasant sight now when they drive by the old Penn Central station (top). A volunteer effort that isn't costing the city a cent is putting new life into the station. Bright, bold colors have replaced transportation green. Below, volunteers help paint the station.

Male 'cabin attendant' finds air passengers unbelieving

By CHET CURRIER
Associated Press Writer

KANSAS CITY (AP) — His coworkers get their share of smiles, but Mike Parke often has to settle for a blank stare.

The trouble is, it isn't until about takeoff time that a good many passengers figure out what he's doing on the plane.

Parke, 23 and fresh out of college, is what they used to call an airline stewardess. Now it's "cabin attendant" or "flight attendant."

Parke joined Trans World Airlines immediately after finishing at the University of Kansas last May and had his first working flight in July.

Some airlines always have had men in such capacities, primarily on overseas runs. In the first days of passenger flights, men actually held a large percentage of the cabin jobs.

But that's quite apparently just history to many modern passengers, who expect to get their coffee, tea or milk from a pretty girl.

"A lot of people still don't know who we are," Parke acknowledged with a smile.

"And even if they do, they're usually not sure what to call us. I guess 'host' is the one I hear most.

"Usually they won't say anything to me, but they'll go up to one of the girls and say something like, 'What is this, Men's Lib?'"

Mike says one of his worst moments comes as he takes his customary station in the aisle for the preflight demonstration of emergency equipment. More often than he cares to remember, the hostess on the public-address system, running through her speech from memory, has announced: "Now, if you will please give your attention to the hostess at the front of the cabin, she will demonstrate...."

Elks lose tax break in Oregon

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Oregon governments may begin collecting taxes on property owned by fraternal groups with restrictions on membership because of a federal court decision.

State officials estimate that as much as $2.3 million a year in taxes is involved.

A three-judge panel ruled Monday that the Oregon Department of Revenue cannot allow the Elks an exemption without violating the equal protection clause of the Fourteenth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

Clifford McGlotten, a 26-year-old former Reed College teaching intern, and 33-year-old Michael Falkenstein, a juvenile court counselor, brought class action with the help of the American Civil Liberties Union.

Opening lead - queen of spades

A reader asks what went wrong with the bidding when he got to six hearts and ended going down one when he had to lose a spade and a club. At the same time, our reader notes that six diamonds would have been a sound contract that could not be defeated.

Important principles of bidding are involved in this hand. To begin with, strong exception must be taken to South's four notrump bid.

Though Blackwood is an extremely valuable instrument for learning about aces, its ultimate purpose is defeated if the search for aces does not at the same time reveal whether or not a slam should be bid.

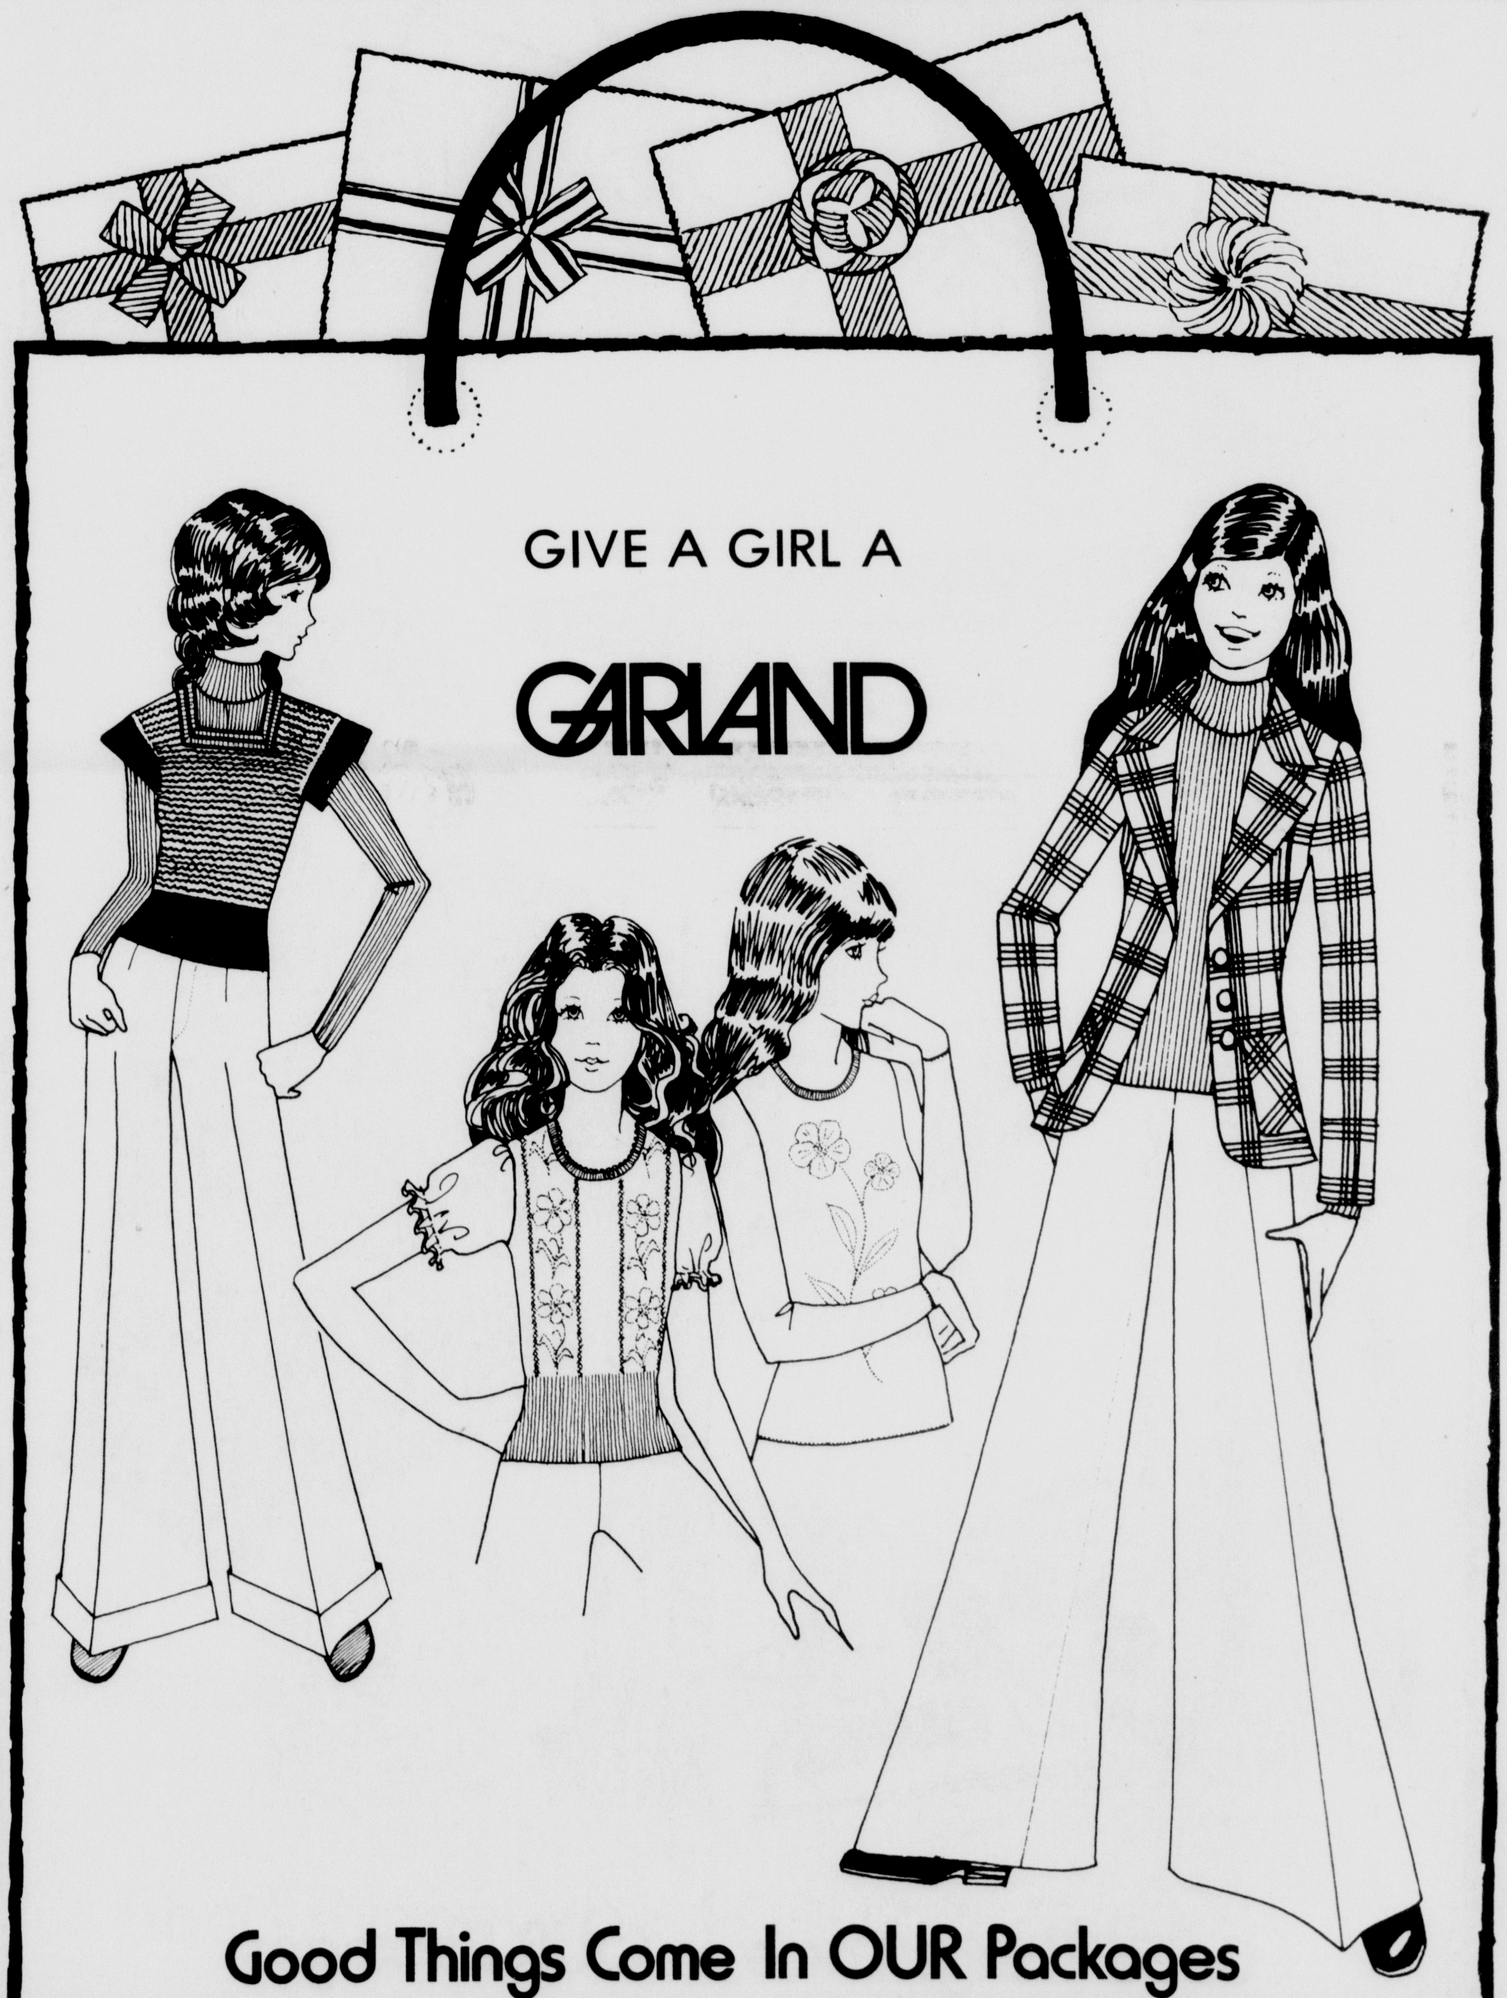
There is no good reason for South to assume that North's having two aces will produce a slam, nor that his having only one ace will preclude a slam.

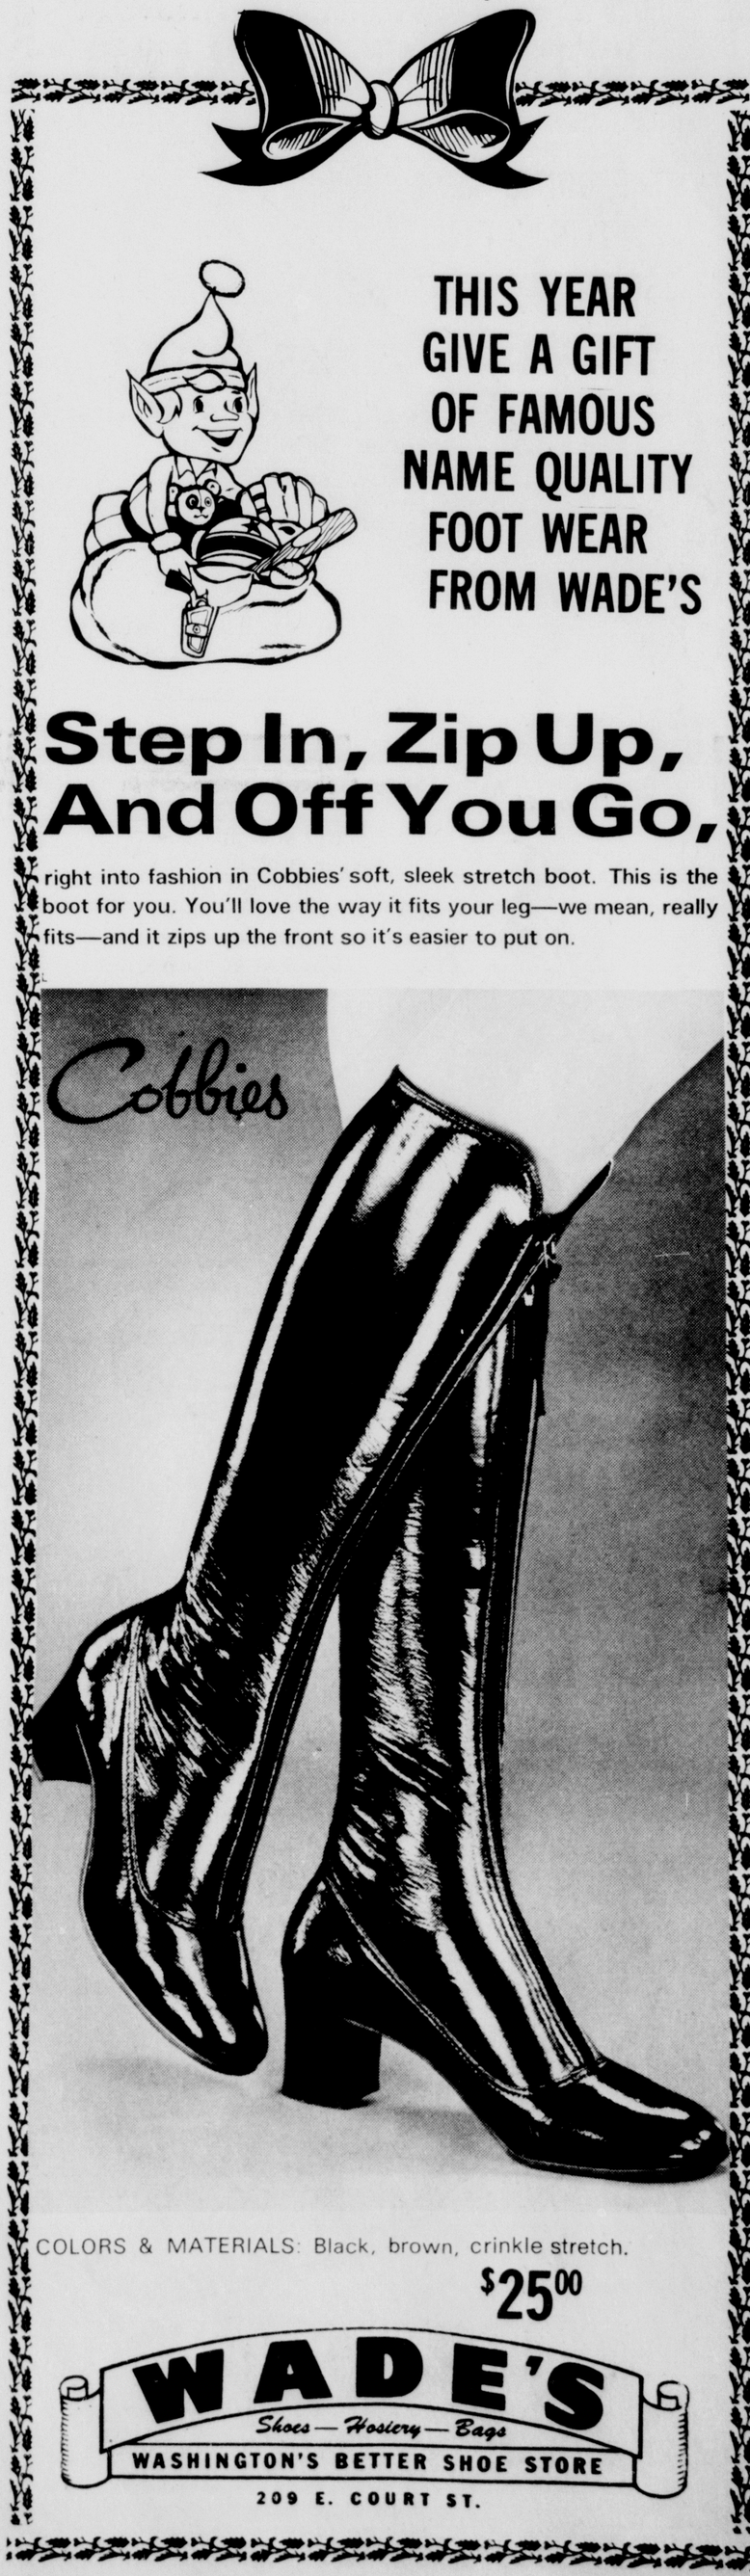
An ace is a trick, and two aces are two tricks, but the absence of one or the presence of two does not by itself solve the question of whether a slam can be made.

The key questions here are whether a slam should be bid, and, if so, in which suit. Using Blackwood is a sadly misguided effort to solve these problems. Here is a reasonable sequence by which the diamond slam can be reached.

Four diamonds suggests a slam and North should respond encouragingly by cuebidding spades. South shows the ace of clubs in return and North should accept the slam invitation by bidding six diamonds, indicating that that suit is also playable.

It is surely no accident, from North's viewpoint, that South's marked heart length will provide a valuable club discard from dummy — if diamonds are trumps.





Canadian North nightlife lively

PANGNITURN, N.W. T. (AP) — The accordion player at the Saturday night dance spills out numbers that last up to a half-hour each. The villagers, 80 per cent Eskimo, polka and reel so enthusiastically the floor sometimes threatens to give way.

The dance is in the community hall after the movie, a film dropped off by one of the scheduled airline flights that stop once a week in this Baffin Island settlement in Canada's Northwest Territories.

Over at the recreation center across the village airstrip, the younger residents bounce and shake to the reverberating strains of Three Dog Night or the Rolling Stones.

A handful of the youth who have acquired wheels use the airstrip as a motorbike dragstrip. It's not uncommon in the small hours of the morning to hear the roar of a motorbike charging through the settlement.

And the noise might not bother anyone. Dances often start as late as midnight and go until 3 a.m.

"The people are basically quiet and easy-going here, but they're naturally sociable, I guess," said a long-time resident.

BROADCAST signals are so faint many homes have no radio.

"Maybe that's got something to do with it. They entertain themselves with each other."

While the village has no clubs, bars or taverns, not even a territorial liquor store, an enterprising individual can usually manage to locate a drink, particularly on Saturday night.

For the visitor, likely to be staying at the village's only hotel, the proprietor might rap on his door and suggest a little something to knock the chill out of the cool Arctic night.

The 10-room Peyton-Cressman Hotel was opened by Ross Peyton and Doug Cressman in 1970, two years after weekly Nordair flights began landing in the community of 700.

At the same time, they opened a fishing camp at Clearwater, 70 miles up Cumberland Sound.

Peyton is from Newfoundland, what he calls "down south." He came north in 1950 and worked 14 years as a Hudson's Bay store manager before going tinto the hotel business.

"We're not equipped to offer all the comforts you'd expect in a hotel down south, but people are really considerate," he said. "We almost never have any complaints.

Here's the Answer

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Q. — I am planning on using plastic laminate on our kitchen counter tops and I have been shopping around for the material. Our local lumber yard has a number of different-size sheets on display. They are all made by the same manufacturer, but one sheet, 2 feet by 5 feet, costs more than any sheet of exactly the same size. The thickness appear to be the same. Why the difference in price? What kind of cement should I use?

A. — Your eyes are deceiving you. One of the sheets probably is one-sixteenth of an inch thick, the other one-thirty second of an inch, a difference that may not be readily noticed but nevertheless means that one sheet is twice as thick as the other. For a counter top application, choose the thicker kind. The thin type is satisfactory for drawer fronts and other vertical applications.

Use a contact cement for bonding the plastic laminate to the plywood, composition board or whatever is being used as the base. Since, as the name implies, this cement grips instantly upon contact, it is important that the plastic be positioned carefully over the base before the two parts are put together.

Q. — I am constantly running across the terms thermoplastic and thermosetting when reading about plastic do-it-yourself projects. What's the difference between the two?

A. — Thermoplastics are those which soften with the application of heat. Thermosetting plastics cannot be reshaped and are resistant to heat.

Q. — There are so many things wrong with the brick chimney in our house that I would like to rebuild it. Can you tell me how to do it?

A. — It is a difficult job calling for skill and knowledge. It should be done by a professional.

Q. — Can you tell me what are the advantages of baseboard heating? We're having a heating change made in our home.

A. — The big plus for baseboard heating is that uniform temperatures are maintained from wall to wall and floor to ceiling, thus eliminating hot spots, cold spots, chilly corners and drafty floors. It is especially good in homes with children, who can play on floors that aren't several degrees colder than the rest of the room.

See veterinarians shunning practice on large animals

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A sick dog or cat in Ohio gets taken to the veterinarian. Cows and horses aren't always so lucky.

Veterinary students in growing numbers are shunning the study of large animal ailments and concentrating on preparation for lucrative treatment of city-bred beasts.

The result is that farmers in a number of rural areas of the state don't have the medical care they need for their livestock.

The Ohio Farm Bureau Federation claims that fewer than two out of every 100 veterinary graduates in recent months have taken up large animal practice.

"I can't verify the percentages," says Ohio State University Veterinary College Assistant Dean William Johnson. "But more people do go into small animal practice than large and the number is increasing.

"It's a combination of things," he said. "One is that the urban practice is fairly large and the other is that people are bringing their animals to the facilities for diagnosis and treatment."

"The veterinarian in rural areas is in effect making house calls," Johnson added. "He has to go from farm to farm on problems that relate to herd health or individual animals. There's a lot of time consumed in that type of practice."

Johnson said he didn't think any area was completely without veterinary medical services, "but it's not as available to them as they would like or as they need."

"There are two remedies," he said. "One is to produce more veterinarians."

The other, he said, is already being tried by the federal government.

"They're offering to students to excuse a percentage of their student loans up to 80 per cent if the student goes to an area where there's a shortage," Johnson said. "It's the same provision that applies to people physicians."

Johnson said the law hadn't been on the books long enough to make a dent in the problem yet, "but we think it does have merit and will show some favorable accomplishments in this area."

The Farm Bureau Federation passed a resolution at its annual meeting in Columbus asking OSU to consider establishment of a Department of Extension Veterinary Medicine.

Skis selling for $100-up are increasing in U.S.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Ski sales in the U.S. should exceed two million pair in the winter season of 1975, up from approximately 1.4 million pair last year, according to the research and management consulting firm of Arthur D. Little. ADL says that skis retailing for $100 make up about half of the pairs now sold and will capture an even larger market share because of their better performance characteristics, durability and brand image.

Seniors of week

By DEBBIE RUNDBLAD

One of the Blue Lines' featured seniors this week is Robin Briggs. Robin resides with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Briggs, of 618 Yeoman St.

She attends Grace United Methodist Church and is active in the church's MYF organization. In her spare time, Robin enjoys riding bikes, riding horseback, swimming and playing football and basketball.

In school, Robin participates in American Field Service, band and Y-Teens. She is also a member of the Sunburst staff, vice president of Future Teachers, editor-in-chief of the Blue Lines and a statistician for the WSHS track team.

WHEN ASKED how she felt about this being her last year at WSHS, she replied, "I am glad to be a senior and I am looking forward to graduation and college, but I am going to miss WSHS and all of my firends.

The second senior of the week is Kevin Smith. Kevin resides with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Smith, at 4 Sunny Drive and attends the South Side Church of Christ. In his spare time, Kevin enjoys water skiing, motorcycling and boat racing.

In school, Kevin is very active as tackle on the varsity football team and in the spring throws the discus for the track squad. He is also a member of the Letterman and Hi-Y clubs.

When asked how he felt about this being his last year at WSHS, Kevin commented that it is "good to make friends, but is sad to leave them and WSHS."

Large deficits seen upcoming

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unless the Nixon administration cuts spending sharply or raises taxes, it faces large inflationary budget deficits during this fiscal year and the next, according to a study by the Brookings Institution.

The study said Monday that spending probably will rise by about $21 billion in fiscal 1974 because of built-in increases in the budget.

The study, by the institution's Nancy H. Teeters, projected a full-employment budget deficit of $13.2 billion for the 1973 fiscal year, that ends next June 30, and at least a $7.2 billion full-employment deficit in the following year.

If there is a $13.2 billion full-employment deficit during the current fiscal year, as the study projected, the actual red ink would be about $33 billion.

The full-employment budget is a technique adopted by President Nixon for putting an upper limit on spending.

It operates on the principle that the government should spend no more than the tax system would produce if there was an enemployment rate of roughly 4 per cent. The jobless rate is now about 5.5 per cent.

"Obviously, the achievement of a less expansionary budget would require cutbacks in programs or increases in taxes— issues that are bound to be in the forefront of administration planning and congressional deliberations on the budget for the 1974 fiscal year," the study said.

New teacher enjoys WSHS

The lady often found playing basketball, ping pong and badminton or coaching the cheerleaders at Washington Senior High School is now other than our featured teacher of the week, Mrs. Nicola Eyre.

Mrs. Eyre spent her high school days at Miami Trace. The next four years of her life were spent studying health and physical education at Miami University where she received her degree in 1970.

MRS. NICOLA EYRE

Mrs. Eyre's moments of pleasure occur when she's reading historical novels, eating out and watching or participating in sports. She spends much of her time redecorating her home which is located on a farm near Leesburg. When not redecorating she is helping her husband, Ed, with the farming and coping with the playful antics of Shannon her St. Bernard dog, and Switch, her house cat.

When asked how this year has gone she replied, "I would like to have accomplished more in my physical education classes, but with the new equipment and the girls' help the rest of the year should look up."

Her comments on the senior high were, "I have been accepted very well at WSHS, which pleases me greatly. The students are great and I've learned to respect them as individuals. The students and teachers are some of the most cooperative people I've worked with."

Plans secretarial career

By TERI MOUNT

Cute, friendly and talented describes this week's featured majorette, Nikki Southworth.

Nikki resides at 920 Rawlings St., with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Southworth, and her pet dog, "Snoopy."

Nikki is a senior and is enrolled in the business courses. Her courses consist of American Government, Business English, office practice, Steno II, physical education and of course, band. After graduation she plans to attend a business college and train to be a medical or legal secretary.

In her spare time she enjoys playing softball, swimming, bowling and twirling. She is a member of Senior Y-Teens, and the McNair Presbyterian Church.

Family doctors regain popularity as medical men change image

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Doctors of tomorrow may be rated by their bedside manner, not the number of pills they dispense.

Medical schools are trying "to revive the family doctor" observed Dr. Richard I. Feinbloom, director of the Family Medicine Program at Harvard Medical School and Medical Director of the Family Health Program at the Children's Hospital Medical Center in Boston. His own program at Harvard is working in that direction, he explains.

Feinbloom was discussing a new book, "Pregnancy, Birth and the Newborn Baby" in which he and other doctors had contributed their expertise for the children's medical center as part of its continuing education program. The book also offers advice on how to choose a doctor for your baby.

New doctors may also relate to personal problems and know more about nutrition which has been bypassed more or less in medical schools, he says.

Today's medical students "want everything out in the open" and he finds teaching them "keeps you on your toes." He is often quite tired at the end of the day "coping with all the new awareness." But he is highly in favor of it.

"Medical opinion is swinging toward a minimization of medication and anaesthesia in pregnancy and childbirth which is beginning to be treated as the natural thing it is. As doctors apply what has been learned about stresses in pregnancy to tensions of daily living, more people will look for causes of problems and not cover them up with drugs," he says.

THERE ARE legitimate uses for drugs — for example, tranquilizers for mental patients — but the average person is inundated with advertisements suggesting instant cures for every ill, he says.

Drugs may mask the ills of society as well as the personal problems of patients. Forced retirement, boredom and family rejection of the elderly are human stresses that require responsible solutions rather than the administration of drugs, he comments.

Physicians must take the lead in educating the public to resist the prescription pad, he feels, adding that steps in that direction already have been taken by several medical societies in declaring moratoriums on amphetamines.

The issue is not that you don't take medication or anaesthesia, he emphasizes, but it should be used more selectively. Medication and anaesthesia may be required in pregnancy because something might go wrong, facts discussed in the hospital's book in chapters on diseases and conditions that complicate pregnancy.

THOUGH THOSE chapters might have a startling impact on the average mother-to-be, they are justified because it is better "to know the truth than to listen to old wives' tales," he says.

In writing the complete guide for parents and parents-to-be, the doctors felt it was important to cover anything people might worry about, "and we didn't think that everybody would read everything in the book," Feinbloom observes.

The book offers advice on drugs in pregnancy, with the observation that "too many pregnant women take drugs for minor aches and pains." Some drugs have been known to result in abnormalities in offspring.

Feinbloom has been a physician 12 years and his career has broadened to include teaching, writing, researching and administrative work. Other contributors to "Pregnancy, Birth and the Newborn Baby" include experts in obstetrics, pediatrics, psychiatry, psychology and social work. In one chapter anthropologist Margaret Meade discusses childbirth in a changing world.

Women priests by 1978

LONDON (AP) — The Church of England will not ordain any women as priests until 1978 at the earliest. Even if "substantial hurdles" are overcome, it will take six years for any resolution to allow women to enter the priesthood, to pass through the church's various tiers of procedural acceptance.

That was the verdict of church officials after publication here of a major report, "The Ordination of Women to the Priesthood."

America's first fog-warning device was included in the construction in 1808 of West Quody Light, the most northern lighthouse along the rockbound coast of Maine. Sixty dollars were added to the lighthouse keeper's $300 yearly pay for beating a 500-pound bell with a hammer on frequent foggy days.

Mary Scranton builds new homes for others

Scranton, Pa. (AP) — Five years ago Mary Scranton came back home to help rebuild and redevelop this region that was still struggling to shake nearly a half century of economic depression. Today, she is still deeply involved in a project for the redevelopment of 10 acres of slum housing.

It began after her husband, William, completed his term as governor of Pennsylvania, and after his dream of becoming president of the United States was shattered in 1964 by losing the Republican nomination to Barry Goldwater.

When he vacated the executive mansion at Harrisburg and brought his family back to their country homestead Scranton vowed never to seek elective office again.

"When it was over, I realized that I had the golden opportunity of having everything cleared away for me, of being released from all honorary titles and associations," Mrs. Scranton, now 54, says. "I had time to find just one thing to do and to give myself to it and become an expert."

IT WAS during that period of post state capitol "decompression" that Scranton Neighbors, Inc., came into Mary Scranton's life, and took her into the four-year project for the redevelopment of slum housing in the heart of this third largest city in Pennsylvania.

The plan to rebuild that part of Adams Avenue had lain dormant for nearly 20 years. Originally, leaders of the Jewish Community Center, the Catholic Diocese and two Protestant churches approached the Scrantons for help. But Mrs. Scranton sought to fend for herself, sank $1,000 into the non-profit project to create a corporation, and became vice president in the process.

From there, she and her associates generatted the dream of "Vallery" an assemblage of ideas and specific plans for creating a better way of life for the people of the city.

"Ah, the dreams," she says.

"A lot really haven't gotten any place at all, and I've learned more about what won't work than what will.

Wine outlook: good, but not a great year

By JOHN VINOCUR
Associated Press Writer

BORDEAUX, France (AP) — Whatever nature does to grapes in France, the men who make wine out of them always describe their product as "honest."

Come real disaster, like hail or the Romans invading to burn the Gauls' vines, a vintner can always say: "It was a better year than expected."

To describe 1972, winegrowers can use both phrases. Some bad weather in the spring gave many a very late start and a real scare. But the grapes made out all right, harvests seemed adequate and 1972 on the whole looks like a good but not great year in satisfactory quantities.

Here is a survey of some of the main wine producing areas:

Bordeaux — Winegrower and merchant Bernard Ginestet said that 1972 "was an improvement over '71 for the region in terms of quantity but not enough to make any dent in terms of the very steep Bordeaux prices. Quality is described locally as promising.

Alsace — The harvest was expected to be reasonably abundant, which might tend to stabilize the price of Alsatian white wines. They have gone up 85 per cent over the last decade. "Without pretending to be particularly flattering, the vintage will be fresh and balanced, typical Alsace, in other words," said Marcel Blanck, president of the Alsace Winegrowers Association.

Beaujolais — "The 1972 Beaujolais will be light, fruity, wideawake and easy-flowing without have any pretentions about being an unusual vintage," said Gerard Canard of the Beaujolais Growers Association. Quantity is described as adequate. Some non-Beaujolais growers are saying the quality is not too hot.

Burgundy — After a good summer, September rains made problems for the Nuits Saint Georges, Beaunes and Gevray Chambertins. The harvest was described as high in alcohol content and reasonably abundant. Prices generally were not rising as fast as in Bordeaux.

Champagne — Although the 1972 harvest was pegged as twice the size of the previous year, quality was just middling as a result of hail and late frosts that hit the vineyards. The price of the Champagne grapes was up by 22 per cent.

Chateauneuf du Pape — Described by Paul Avril, president of the local winegrowers association, as being "an exceptional year for quality although the quantity is very irregular" — which usually translates as expensive.

WCH Organ Club to meet Monday

A special meeting of the Washington C. H. Organ Club will be held at 7:30 p.m. Monday, Nov. 27, in the Grace United Methodist Church parlor, Donald C. Riber, the 1972-73 president, announces.

This will be the first meeting of the new term, and Riber asks that each of the present members bring a guest of prospective new member. A special category for associate members has been created to allow for those who are not necessarily organists but are interested in all kinds of organ music, to become associated with the group.

Plans will be discussed for the forthcoming Gaylord Carter appearance in Washington C. H. Jan. 16.

The Organ Club has been active for the past three years in presenting Yuletide music at various churches in the area and in presenting such artists as Wayne Fisher, Dorothy Riley and local organists for recitals and concerts.
